Tony Tesic of the powerful Trail Track and Field Club demonstrates his winning form at the B.C. Junior Centennial Track and Field Championships, which opened today at Kelowna at City Park Oval. Tesic will compete in the hammer throw and shot-put. Nearly 450 athletes from all over Western Canada have entered the two-day meet which finishes at 5 p.m. Saturday. Events are scheduled until 9 p.m. today and begin at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Secret Hospital Found In Hong Kong Raid

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Police today made their first aerial assaults on Communist strongholds here, swooping in helicopters on two rooftops.

They eased themselves down by rope when there was not enough room to land.

As a helicopter hovered over the 27-storey New Metropole building, police climbed down to the roof, picked their way through assorted booby traps inside and uncovered a well-equipped hospital behind a secret door.

FLY FROM CARRIER

Twenty-five arrests were made and a large quantity of homemade weapons seized by police and troops in three raids on this troubled colony's pro-

Peking Chinese strongholds. Troops guarded the rooftops while police, who also entered the buildings from the street, carried out their searches.

About 1,000 police and troops took part in the operation. The helicopters took off from the British aircraft carrier Hermes anchored offshore.

A government spokesman said police found the "unregistered" hospital at the rear of the third floor.

The only access to the hospital was through a small doorway disguised as a metal panel. Police had to stoop in order to enter.

The spacious white-tiled rooms inside contained an air-conditioned operating theatre, with an operating table made in Shanghai, a large sterilizing plant for medical instruments, an x-ray machine and radiography clinic, a dispensary, a linen store and casualty wards.

The spokesman said that in some smaller premises on the floor directly below was what appeared to be an extension of the hospital, containing consulting rooms, beds, more medical stocks and a kitchen.

CORDON OFF STREETS

Several hundred police, backed by troops, cordoned off streets in the crowded North Point district on Hong Kong island as the raids got under way.

Police found booby traps at the front doors of two of the buildings. At one entrance a wire mesh door mat was connected to an electric outlet and a chest-high wire carrier was connected to the electrified mat.

Arabs Show Moderation

KHARTOUM, Sudan, (AP)—Arab foreign ministers, showing signs of a new spirit of moderation, went into their fourth day of talks today optimistic that they can reach agreement to convene an Arab summit conference.

Algeria and Syria still have not pledged their full support, however. In a television interview Thursday night Syrian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Mak-houd termed the conference a "farce and a waste of time." The Sudanese newspaper "El Ayam" reports some Arab countries are ready for contacts, direct or indirect, with Israel to seek a withdrawal of Israeli troops from occupied territory.

There was no confirmation of El Ayam's report, but several delegations said privately that arms never will solve the Arab-Israeli problem.

U.S. Planes Fly 197 Missions Against Vietnam Targets

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. planes hit North Vietnam with 197 strike missions Thursday, 22 more than were flown in a single day during the 212 years of bombing the North.

U.S. headquarters also announced today that 635 combat planes have been lost over North Vietnam, including an air force F-105 Thursday which was downed by ground fire Thursday and three losses not previously disclosed.

The ground war continued in one of its periodic lulls. The massive sweep by an estimated 10,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops in the Mekong Delta 45 miles south of Saigon, the biggest operation staged so far in the delta, came to a close.

In the same delta area, South Vietnamese troops reported killing the commander of a hard-core Viet Cong battalion and capturing his assistant.

The U.S. flyers attacked targets ranging from the Bac Giang railway and highway bridge 27 miles northeast of Hanoi to storage areas, troop concentrations and transport facilities down through the southern peninsula.

The U.S. Command said 87 missions were flown by the air force, 74 by the navy and 36 by the marines.

This broke a record that had stood for nearly 10 months—175 missions last Oct. 11.

In South Vietnam, the Viet Cong brought down a U.S. marine CH-46 helicopter near the A Shau Valley and three marines aboard were wounded, a U.S. spokesman said.

Top Leaders Of China's Army Reported Toppled In Purge

TOKYO (Reuters)—Nearly a third of the giant Chinese army's top political leaders have been purged, says a Japanese correspondent quoting reports circulated in Peking.

News of the purge comes after reports during the last 48 hours of wounded Chinese soldiers filling hospitals in the industrial city of Wuhan, of a deposed military leader held in Peking to face accusations about an uprising, and indications—based on Japanese reports—that China's power struggle may be drawing toward a climax.

The Peking correspondent of the Japanese paper Mainichi Shimbun says 14 first political commissars—nearly a third of the Chinese army regional political heads—have been purged. The correspondent says the purges included five leaders of 10 large military areas and nine leaders of 27 small military areas.

South Koreans To Take Part On U.S. Side In S. Vietnam

SEOUL (AP)—President Korea has 16,000 fighting men who are to be sent to South Vietnam to fight against the North Vietnamese.

Two U.S. envoys, Clark Clifford and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, made a request for more Korean combat troops, a move that would increase the number of troops in South Vietnam.

Clifford and Taylor, who are in South Vietnam, Thailand, the United States to help man the Vietnam war, will be scheduled to leave for Washington last night.

ROBLIN ENTERS

Then There Were Nine

WINNIPEG (CP)—Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin bought a one-way ticket to federal politics Thursday with his announcement that he is seeking the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative party.

Win or lose at the September leadership convention in Toronto, he will resign as premier and devote his time to federal affairs.

His decision to seek the leadership was widely anticipated and he made it official at a news conference. Mr. Roblin is the ninth candidate, and second provincial premier, to enter the race.

The 50-year-old premier said his decision "means a definite commitment to federal affairs."

"Regardless of the outcome of the national Progressive Conservative convention I shall retire as premier of Manitoba," Mr. Roblin said. "It would be expected that I would continue to discharge the office of premier until the convention is over."

"As soon as appropriate thereafter, however, I shall make way for a successor as leader of the government and of the Manitoba Progressive Conservative party."

PLENTY OF TALENT

His successor would be named, he said, at a leadership convention this fall, in accordance with the wishes of his caucus. He gave no indication of his personal choice but said "there is plenty of good talent available."

The dapper premier, who has been leader of his party for 13 years and premier for nine, said in a prepared statement: "I make this move into federal politics in the hope of joining with Progressive Conservatives everywhere in Canada to make our party the best possible instrument to serve the nation and advance the welfare of our people."

He said the march of time and events demonstrates the need for new men and new ideas in national affairs.

"Our party must be ready to meet this need. To this end I seek an opportunity to work with the men and women of my party and with Canadians of goodwill everywhere for Canada's second century."

He said one of his main reasons for seeking the leadership was the "great problem of national unity."

The other aspirants are Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia, former Diefenbaker cabinet minister George Hees, David Fulton, Donald Fleming, Wallace McCutcheon, Michael Starr and Alvin Hamilton, and businessman John McLean of Brockville, Ont.

Shotgun Blast Shatters Quiet Prevailing In Most U.S. Cities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A shotgun blast from a car occupied by white youths at a sheriff and a group of Negro youths touched off a noisy demonstration in Wichita, Kan., early today, marring a night of relative calm in American streets.

Wyandotte, N.Y., a predominantly Negro community on Long Island, suffered through a third night of scattered disorders. Police arrested nine youths after cars were hit by stones and bottles.

PURSUED YOUTHS

But in the rest of the United States, the tide of violence continued to ebb. Milwaukee's curfew was eased, and the police chief of Providence, R.I., said he thinks racial violence there is "over for this year."

Wichita Sheriff Vern Miller was talking to a group of Negro youths in the city's predominantly-Negro northeastern section when a shotgun blast was fired from a car occupied by white youths. Miller and four Negroes were struck by pellets, but none was seriously injured.

Miller pursued the white youths across Wichita at speeds reaching 110 miles an hour, but lost them at a railway crossing.

Later, 20 to 25 young Negroes demonstrated outside the hospital where the injured were treated, and, still later, a group of about 70 demonstrated outside police headquarters over the arrest of a Negro alleged to have assaulted three whites.

Police in both Milwaukee and Providence still enforced nighttime curfews, but travel bans were eased in the Wisconsin city and Mayor Henry Maier said the curfew would be reinstated at midnight tonight instead of 9 p.m.

Alaska (AP)—A Soviet trawler, seized last March for violating the 12-mile exclusive fisheries zone off the Alaska coast, was picked up for the same offense Thursday, the U.S. Coast Guard reported.

The STRM 8-457, a 180-foot refrigerated vessel, was seized by the coast guard cutter Avoyel 10 miles north of Akutan Island in the Aleutians and taken under tow for Dutch Harbor.

"I am urging confiscation of this Russian trawler," Governor Walter Hickel said.

The seizure was the third of a Soviet vessel in Alaskan waters in the last year. When the STRM 8-457 was taken off Seal Cape in March her captain was fined $10,000. It is not known who her skipper now is.

Russian Law Urged To Protect Animals

MOSCOW (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia calls for a law against cruelty to animals. It cites reports of an old woman who fed animals food mixed with needles, a man who poured gasoline on a bull and set it afire and a teacher who shot a dog in front of pupils.

could take years after the fighting between regular armies ended.

"It isn't in the cards for us simply to pick up our marbles and go home," he says. "That could waste every life and every dollar that we and the South Vietnamese and our other allies have spent in the struggle."

"I envision something like Korea, where we are now achieving a success story in the civilian realm supported by a long military presence."

PRESSURE GREAT

Other Southeast Asia specialists say the U.S. stand in South Vietnam has strengthened the will of other nations in the area to resist Communist incursions.

Prices Now 50 Per Cent Higher Than Those Recorded In 1949

OTTAWA (CP)—Higher food and housing costs pushed the consumer price index up 1.4 points to 150.2 at the beginning of July, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, was 144.3 in July last year. The increase of 5.9 index points in the year represents a climb of 4.1 per cent. The gain in July was nearly one per cent.

It was the first time the index, a measurement of the cost of living, had crossed the 150 mark. It means that consumer prices now are more than 50 per cent higher than they were in 1949.

The bureau said all main components of the overall price index rose between June and July, with the exception of clothing, and tobacco and alcohol.

Food price increases accounted for close to 70 per cent of the increase. The cost of housing and household operations accounted for nearly 20 per cent.

The food index rose to 148.5 from 144.8 because of higher prices generally for fresh fruits and vegetables and most meats. There were strong price increases for grapefruit, grapes, apples, bananas, potatoes, lettuce, tomatoes, beef, bacon, lamb, and weiners.

Prices were somewhat higher for dairy products including butter, and for cookies, cake, doughnuts, cereals, macaroni and cake mix.

These more than offset lower prices for jam, tea, tea bags, instant and regular coffee, peanut butter, margarine, lard, salad dressing, poultry and eggs.

Rents, Costs, Furnishings Up

The housing index rose to 151.9 from 151.2 largely because of higher rents, higher home ownership costs, and higher prices of home furnishings.

The housing index represents 32 per cent of the over-all index, and the food index 27 per cent.

MEN'S WEAR DOWN

While prices of women's and children's wear and of footwear were higher, these were offset by lower prices for men's wear, leaving the clothing index unchanged at 132.5.

CASE ADJOURNED

VANCOUVER (CP)—A court move by International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers aimed at preventing the possible dismissal of a group of pulp workers at Hargrave has been adjourned to Aug. 14. The union is seeking an injunction to prevent MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. from dismissing workers who refuse to join the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

LITTER FIGHTERS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ray Eagle, chairman of a newly-formed, unnamed group that hopes to control the province's litter problem, said at the organization's first meeting Thursday something must be done before refuse creates a serious situation. He said he hopes the organization will be able to act as a clearing house for ideas on litter control.

French Town Raps De Gaulle

BARENTIN, France (Reuters) This town in northern France has named a new street after the late Canadian General, H. D. G. Creer.

Mayor Andre Marie said the name was chosen as a protest against President de Gaulle's "long live free Quebec" statement in Montreal recently.

The street was named rue Creer Thursday after the man who led the Canadian Army on the Western Front 1944-45. He died two years ago.

Barentin, a town of 7,000 people, is located in Normandy just east of the Seine River, about 36 miles from the English Channel and 10 miles north of Rouen. The area was liberated by the Canadian 1st Army in August, 1944.

On a guard of the street Mayor Marie said his name will show "that Barentin can neither commit nor admit any word or act of ingratitude toward the allies who liberated France in 1944 and 1945."

SIU Strike 'Seems Certain' Unless Contract Agreed Upon

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for 32 shipping companies which move the bulk of cargo passing through the Great Lakes "seems certain" if a contract settlement does not come by Aug. 16, says the president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada.

Leonard McLaughlin made the statement following a jubilation SIU membership meeting in Montreal, one of a number held Thursday in ports from Halifax to Port William, Ont.

"There is no doubt about the mood of the membership," Mr. McLaughlin added.

There were promises of support from other unions and an expression of surprise by a spokesman for the companies.

Specifically, the men voted to authorize the taking of a strike vote by Aug. 16.

They also approved a resolution saying that "the members should strike against their employers in support of contract demands."

A total of 5,400 SIU members would be involved in a strike. About 2,000 did the Thursday voting.

They received a promise of full backing from 19 other unions whose 200,000 men shift inland cargo.

The supporting unions, representing longshoremen, ship's officers and teamsters, form an organization known as the Montreal and St. Lawrence Tributary Port Councils.

"I cannot understand why they would want to strike," commented an employers' spokesman when asked about the SIU vote.

The spokesman, Benjamin Truax, is head of negotiations for the Lake Carriers Association.

"We have had good relations with the unions," he remarked. "The men on the ships seem happy."

FORECASTS BIG IMPACT

He forecast a big impact on much of the Canadian economy if the strike materializes.

Ships owned by the 32 companies would be halted on the Great Lakes and along the east coast.

The SIU members also termed "unacceptable" certain recommendations in a conciliation board report made last month by Louis Fine of Toronto.

The union men singled out what they called the absence of a 40-hour week among the offered terms.

The provision was sought by the union under provisions of 1965 federal legislation which it said implemented the 40-hour week for most industries across the country.

Mr. McLaughlin said Thursday Labor Minister Nicholson wants both sides in the bargaining to make another effort at solving the 40-hour-week question. The companies say they cannot afford such a week.

Ray Green, president of the Montreal and St. Lawrence Tributary Port Councils, promised "moral and financial support" to the SIU.

"We won't cross picket lines and we won't service the companies' ships," said Mr. Green.

Earl Mountbatten of Burma, the man who planned the 1942 Dieppe raid, will be senior British armed-services representative at ceremonies in France commemorating the 25th anniversary of the doomed assault Aug. 19. Mountbatten will head a British contingent of all three services at the official commemoration ceremony in the Canadian war cemetery at Les Vertus. This will be followed by a public religious service on Dieppe esplanade and parades by Canadian, British and French contingents as RCAF planes drop poppies on the channel port.

A 20-year-old woman was killed when the car in which she was riding collided with a rock wall on Highway 97 four miles north of Penticton. Linda Jennifer Inskip of Kamloops was pronounced dead on arrival at Penticton Hospital. Police said the car, driven by Clifford John Kechn, 23, of Penticton, was travelling north when it failed to negotiate a turn and struck the wall. Kechn and his brother Leonard, 17, who was riding in the car, were taken to Penticton hospital where they were in good condition with lacerations.

Teachers Reject CIA Cash

Delegates to the 16th annual assembly of the World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession agreed to an executive report to refuse to accept further assistance from the Vernon fund.

Sir Ronald Gould of England, President of the WCOTF, said in an interview he was not sure what the Vernon fund was but he believed it supported a number of educational and social activities.

It was reported the WCOTF received $500,000 of its 1965 income of $555,663 from the Vernon fund.

Sir Ronald said repudiation of the money was recommended on the basis of newspaper reports that the Vernon fund received money from the CIA, the secret service division of the U.S. Government.

ASKED SOURCE
"The WCOTF asked the fund to reveal its source of income," Sir Ronald said. "They told us it was not policy to reveal the sources."

"All funds have been received without restriction and have been used on programs approved by the assembly of delegates."

After repudiation of the Vernon fund money, Sir Ronald asked that WCOTF member countries seek financial assistance from other sources.

Sir Ronald said that when the WCOTF was organized 16 years ago financial support came from membership dues and a grant from the United Nations.

"When the support proved to be inadequate we had no alternative but to seek external contributions," he said, "but the money was taken on the condition that it would be under the complete control of the WCOTF."

Svetlana's Book Gives Account Of How Father Died In Agony

LONDON (AP)—Joseph Stalin's daughter Svetlana disclosed in memoirs published here Thursday that the Soviet dictator choked to death for 12 hours, his face turning black in agony.

Svetlana sat by her father's bed in March, 1953, "for those three terrible days it took him to die."

She said frantic efforts were made to save him—leeches put on his head and neck, cardiograms, x-rays and continuous injections.

It was, Svetlana wrote, a "ghastly death." Slowly asphyxiated throughout the last 12 hours, Stalin's face turned black, became unrecognizable and in terrible agony he choked to death.

Svetlana implied that her father hastened his own death. He believed there was a doctor's plot against him and permitted no physician in his Kremlin home for several months before he died.

TOOK STEAM BATH
He took pills and iodine from time to time, and the day before suffering a cerebral hemorrhage, he took a steam bath. Svetlana says a doctor would never have permitted. She said her heart was bursting with grief and love for her father—"I felt I had been a good-for-nothing daughter, and had in no way helped this lonely, old and sick man who was rejected and alone on his Olympus."

This is recounted by Olga Franklin, Russian-language expert of The Daily Mail-Evening News, in reviewing Svetlana's book, Twenty Letters to a Friend. It was published here in Russian by Hutchinson's at $7.50. In the book, Svetlana described her father as a man who did not know how to kill. Referring to a story that Stalin killed his second wife, Svetlana's mother, Svetlana said:

"How easy and simple it would be if that were the case. There is nothing to explain, and the fact is that he himself never killed anybody in his life except hawks and hares and he did not know how to."

Russians Enjoy Snowmobile Test

VALCOURT, Que. (CP)—A group of Soviet officials visited a snowmobile factory Thursday, romped exuberantly on the vehicles' swampland testing ground, then declared themselves impressed and went away "quite sure to buy some."

The 17-member delegation, led by D. Shashin of the Soviet Union, took time off from some Expo-going to visit the plant of Bombardier Ltd., which manufactures snow-traction machines in this Eastern Township community 70 miles south-east of Montreal.

Mr. Shashin said he "appreciated the factory's efforts" at trying to overcome impassable northern terrain and declared: "I think we'll buy such machinery from Canada."

He said most of his delegation, touring Canada a combined industrial mission and Expo visit, "are representatives of the oil industry who work in swamps and such where transportation is of primary importance."

Throughout her childhood, Svetlana saw all her aunts and uncles disappear. Some, such as Anna Segeyevna, came back "a bit silly" from years of solitary confinement. Some never returned.

Svetlana wrote that her father feared crowds and was annoyed by foreign press and perfume. She said he slapped her twice across the face because, at 17, she fell in love with a middle-aged Jewish dramatist.

She said Stalin told her he was afraid to go out because the crowds would come and applaud, standing, clapping, "mouths open, the fools."

Salin shouted at his eldest son, Yasha, who had tried to kill himself after his first marriage failed: "Missed, eh, you great fool."

Mrs. Franklin called the book a masterpiece, worthy of Tolstoy.

But, Mrs. Franklin added, seekers of political sensation will find none in these memoirs. "The Russian version of the book appeared here as action started in the High Court to block distribution of an allegedly unauthorized version by another publisher, Alex Flegen. The court set Aug. 18 for hearing, and Flegen agreed not to publish any part of the book before then."

English-language translations of the book are in the hands of American publishers.

Bennett To Mark 15-Year Rule

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett will mark 15 years of Social Credit government in British Columbia Sunday by cutting into a 100-pound birthday cake in Stanley Park.

The premier will be the star attraction at the party's seven-hour strawberry social which gives children free ice cream, soft drinks, pony and train rides.

Adults will get free coffee, and along with the kids, a piece of a five-foot-wide birthday cake decorated with green and white icing, candles and the number 15.

Also included in the events will be a speech by the premier, a tour in vintage cars loaded with cabinet ministers and civic dignitaries, and a fireworks display.

LUCKY LAGER

It takes a man-sized beer to quench a sailor's thirst. So after the salt spray and sunburn of sailing, hoist a foaming schooner of Lucky Lager. Lucky's blended for traditional big beer taste, slow-brewed Western-style for great beer quality. So grab yourself a Lucky Lager - for men who know a good beer when they taste it.

Drill and marching techniques will be displayed at the Regatta by the 70-member Regina Lions Junior A Band.

The performance will mark the 25th anniversary of the band's founding. The Regina band has won the most outstanding brass and reed band and the most outstanding band awards in appearances at the Moose Jaw International

Kinsmen Band Festival. Saskatchewan is the honor province for the 61st Regatta which begins Wednesday and runs until Saturday. The Regatta office on Mill Street will be open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. this Saturday and next Saturday and from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday to Friday.

Caravan's Plans Can't Get Mobile

A plan to shorten the driving distance to Vancouver from Kelowna has run into problems. A caravan of cars, scheduled to leave Kelowna Aug. 20 to pub-lize a new and shorter route to the Coast was denied a necessary fire permit by the B.C. Forest Service Thursday. The decision came only hours after the caravan idea gained support from the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce.

The cavalcade of cars will promote the completion of a six-mile stretch of road from the end of the Bear Creek Road to the Plateau route at Godfridson Mountain. The six-mile stretch is the single obstacle in a shorter route to Merritt and Vancouver.

The Kelowna caravan was scheduled to join with a similar group in Merritt travelling to Hope.

The beginning of the Plateau route road is only 22 miles west of Kelowna, but to reach that point about 60 miles must be travelled along the Peachland Road over the mountains past Brenda and Pennask Lakes.

Completion of the six-mile stretch would eliminate the need to travel the longer route and would cut the road distance to Vancouver by about 50 miles and one hour's driving time.

Transfers in at Rutland Elementary: J. H. MacMillan; West Rutland, Mrs. S. M. Kitch; Benvenuto, Mrs. D. G. Fry; Wood Lake, K. Kuita and Miss L. Wedel and at Winfield, Mrs. D. Foster and Miss A. Dobie.

There were a total of 55 resignations and 42 transfers. Eight teachers took a leave of absence.

Safe-Driving Knowledge Pays Off With Expo Trip

A knowledge of safe-driving fundamentals has given Paul Desjardins an all-expenses paid trip to Ottawa and Expo 67.

Paul, 17, of 1891 Carruthers St., leaves Monday for the six-day trip. He will join 18 other young people from B.C. for the youth driving seminar.

Paul qualified for the trip by winning the Kelowna and District Safety Council's safe-driving competition April 9. He received top marks, as 18 young people, ranging in age from 17 to 24, competed.

The competition involved writing a test March 27 and a 500 word essay on youth driving problems April 9.

No driving was involved, as the fundamentals of safe driving and not driving skill was emphasized.

Paul said he was "very excited" and just about finished packing.

City's Float Wins Again

The efforts of one man paid off in a first prize in the Ponticton Peach Festival Parade, when the Kelowna float won a community class trophy.

Mayor R. F. Parkinson said today that city employee Hugh McCormick almost single-handedly created the float. Mr. McCormick also drove the float in the parade.

The float won in the community over 10,000 class, and will appear in the Regatta parade.

Floats Arrive For Big Parade

A Ponticton Peach Festival Parade prize-winning float has been stored in Kelowna until its entry in the Regatta Parade Wednesday.

The Richmond Chamber of Commerce float won third prize as a community entry. It is the first float to arrive for the parade here.

"With the arrival of the Richmond entry our work moves into final stages," Regatta Parade Marshal Gerry McRobb said.

"We are most happy with the response to the parade," he said, "and the list of entries is impressive. Entries are still being accepted and we would like to see more with a centennial theme."

Mr. McRobb said that there are already more than 50 entries.

The parade begins at 6 p.m. Wednesday, going along Bernard Avenue to the City Park.

'New Look' Kelowna Club

The executive of the Kelowna Club has announced acceptance of a bid of $11,619 from Douillard Construction of Kelowna for phase one of an eventual $25,000 renovation program to include the addition of a sauna bath, new showers, lockers and locker room and an exercise room.

Plans include a complete remodelling of the present washroom. Construction is expected to start within a few days and be complete within six or eight weeks.

The renovations have been planned with a view to more active participation by present members and to encourage increased membership, with a membership drive slated to coincide with the start of construction.

The executive said while present members have taken into consideration the projected growth of the area, all planning has provided for expansion if required.

Phase two of the program will include a complete remodelling of the heating and air-conditioning system, increased facilities for mixed functions and further alterations to facilitate club activities.

One thing that did impress Victoria was the knowledge of the United Nations.

"I came back even more convinced," the 16-year-old Kelowna Secondary School student said today.

She described the trip as "really fantastic."

Miss Gibb was one of 32 students from Alaska, British Columbia, Alberta and Washington to take a 26-day tour of New York, Montreal and Ottawa.

She won the Independent Order of Odd Fellows UN pilgrimage for youth public speaking and essay competition to qualify for the trip.

She travelled across Canada and the United States in a bus with the other students, an experience she describes as "fabulous."

"When you travel up to eight hours a day in a bus, you find yourself discussing subjects from every conceivable angle. All the students exchanged ideas, gave opinions and commented on the opinions of others," she said.

Vietnam was probably the most delicate topic. Almost all the 14 American students on the trip had an uncle, father, brother or boyfriend in Vietnam.

"One of the students was writing to a boy now serving in Vietnam. You find it awfully difficult to put your views forth when the person you're talking to is so deeply involved."

UN's Major World Role Impressed Victoria Gibb

When Victoria Gibb left for New York and a trip to the United Nations, July 7, she was convinced the UN played a major role in world affairs.

"I came back even more convinced," the 16-year-old Kelowna Secondary School student said today.

The United Nations was a highlight for all the students.

One boy left totally convinced the United Nations was a great instrument for preserving world peace. But all during the trip he talked about how completely incompetent and useless it was.

The students were allowed only a few hours at Expo 67 because of the tight schedule, but were impressed by what exhibits did manage to see.

"We just raced around from pavilion to pavilion," Victoria said.

While at the UN, the students spoke to representatives of the Philippines, South Africa, the USSR and the United States.

They also toured the entire building and sat where the day before, UN delegates struggled for a solution to the Middle East crisis.

Victoria attended one meeting of the general assembly but the meeting was barely convened before it was adjourned.

The Soviet delegate was waiting for word from officials in the USSR and could not comment or give his country's view until then," she said.

She said all the representatives the students spoke to were friendly and straightforward in answering their questions.

Tight Money Not That Bad

Kelowna officials take a more optimistic view of a gloomy picture painted by Ted Atkinson of Summerland and Mayor Maurice Finnerly of Penticton.

In a story from Summerland this week, Mr. Atkinson, manager of the Okanagan Regional Industrial Council, said tight money is preventing new industries from establishing in the Okanagan.

He said five major companies are planning to locate in the area when money is available. The council received 200 inquiries in the 18 months since it formed, but he said tight money arrived soon after the plan started.

"There are all kinds of things in the wind if only the money was available," he said. Mayor Finnerly said there is little hope of any change for some time.

"The situation doesn't strike me as being that bad," said Jim Donald, Kelowna's industrial commissioner. "We keep plugging ahead and have one or two good prospects at the moment. We expect some announcements of new industries to be made before the end of 1967."

Mayor R. F. Parkinson says there is no doubt the tight money situation exists and has some detrimental effect, but he said there has been some easing in the past few months.

"But it could ease a lot more," he added. Mayor Parkinson said well-established firms and people with solid business reputations can locate money but the situation is more difficult for young people wanting to start industries.

He said the government has been asked to make money available for those wanting to establish in designated areas; easier funds from the Industrial Development Bank, but to date there was no response.

Both Mayor Parkinson and F. K. Harding, president of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce, agreed there is no question but that the tight money situation is having some effect, "but not as disastrous as all that," Mr. Harding said, and "not quite that bad," was the mayor's comment.

Mr. Harding said some prospective new industry officials are biding their time to see if money becomes more available.

He said the tight money situation is general in Canada and is an "unfortunate situation" which he hopes will alleviate itself shortly.

The Okanagan Regional Industrial Council was formed when the Okanagan was declared a designated area and represents 20 municipalities in efforts to attract new industries. The federal plan provides cash grants of up to one-third on a capital investment of up to $250,000, 25 per cent of $1,000,000 and 20 per cent of more than $1,000,000.

An estimated $30,000,000 in new industry has come to the Okanagan as a result of the plan, Mr. Atkinson said.

How Can World Handle All Of Its Waste?

What to do with the discards produced by our age of abundance has been engaging the attention of experts in the United States.

Houses, cars, buildings now have a measurable length of life. No one builds for the centuries any more. Only recently in New York City a fifteen storey office building built less than ten years ago was torn down to make way for one of more than forty stories to be constructed on the same site. The steadily increasing cost of land has made the smaller building uneconomic; greater use had to be made of air space.

The pace of obsolescence is increasing and as it does so, so does the amount of refuse produced by our age of abundance.

The biggest problem of all perhaps is cars. These go to their own graveyards, generally disfiguring the countryside. Near Detroit, that home of the automobile, there are huge mountains of wrecks. Each car has been crushed until it resembles a sandwich. Thousands of them have been piled to make monstrous cubes. And there are many cubes.

In every country in the western world old cars are abandoned on city streets or in ditches on country roads. The owners rip off the licence plates and walk away. The cost of towing away these discards is borne by the taxpayers, so is the problem of destruction.

In common with almost everything else the cost of wrecking old buildings has increased.

It has been proposed in the United States that on to the price of all buildings and cars five per cent should be added to cover wrecking costs. This money should be kept in a public trust fund and devoted solely to disposing of the car or building when it becomes obsolete.

On the face of it, the scheme does not seem feasible. It would lead inevitably as the years passed to confusion and would open the way for all kinds of chicanery. What is interesting about it is that it expresses, however weirdly, a note of desperation.

There is no hole deep enough to accommodate the millions of cars that come to the end of their working life every year. The sea is being used as a dump. But the answer eventually will have to be huge, ever-burning beacons to destroy the perpetual waste of modern civilization.

World Changed Drastically When China Fired H-Bomb

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Writers

In one searing moment June 17, the world changed suddenly, and drastically—China had exploded a hydrogen bomb.

Within 30 months China may have 100 of the most powerful bombs, estimates Ralph Lapp, U.S. nuclear physicist who played a role in developing the atomic bomb.

Within that same brief time, it could be stockpiling the missiles to lob city-obliterating bombs at targets near and far—as far as North America.

The possible consequences of China's dealing itself in as a nuclear power are widespread and dismaying, an Associated Press study finds.

There are these possibilities: —China might donate a few A-bombs to Arab countries. Israel then could be impelled to build, beg or borrow bombs of its own.

—It might use bombs to blackmail weaker countries into keeping hands off "people's liberation" wars of rebellion within their own borders.

—Japan, India and other countries could decide to make their own bombs, killing all hopes for a nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

China's possession of the H-bomb could start the U.S. on an anti-ballistic missile program, which some argue would only send the arms race into a new, dangerous and useless spiral.

China must be reckoned as a first-class power.

The H-bomb gives a soaring boost to Chinese morale, says one top adviser on China to the U.S. government.

It took China only 32 months to leap from its first atomic explosion to detonation of an H-bomb. How swiftly may it acquire significant nuclear muscles?

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara predicted China may test-launch an ICBM before the year's end, or send a Chinese satellite into orbit, signalling progress in control and guidance of nuclear missiles.

The estimate that China could have 100 H-bombs by 1970 is made on the basis of published information and other sources by Dr. Lapp. He credits China with current ability to produce annually 1,000 pounds of uranium 235, the atoms that split to make A-weapons.

U-235 is the most expensive ingredient in the big bombs. Others, such as lithium 6 and heavy water, are relatively cheap.

U.S. Senator Henry M. Jackson (Dem. Wash.) predicts China, by the end of 1967, will have a capability for intermediate-range ballistic missiles and will begin deploying them. These can zoom 1,000 to 3,500 miles or more, and so could menace Soviet Asia and South-east Asian countries, says Jackson, a member of several military and nuclear affairs committees.

By the mid-1970s, China "will have enough bombs and missiles to be a real threat to life in the United States."

When China exploded its H-bomb, it was at least 2½ years ahead of the schedule estimated for it by westerners.

The U.S. spent seven years moving from A-bomb to H-bomb. It took Russia four years, Britain seven, and France is not yet there. China required only two years and eight months. The reasons are intriguing; the record impressive.

Oct. 16, 1964: The first A-bomb was detonated from a tower near Lop Nor-Lake Lop—in the remote northwestern province of Sinkiang. Its force: 20,000 tons of TNT, equal to the Hiroshima bomb 19 years earlier. U.S. experts figured China might have H-bombs by 1975. Little official concern was expressed.

May 17, 1965: An air drop of an A-bomb about double the earlier force. U.S. officials spoke in terms of a Chinese H-bomb by 1970.

May 9, 1966: Test tower detonation of a device of over 200,000 tons of TNT. Ingredients needed for an H-reaction were detected, says Representative Craig Hosmer, Republican member of the joint committee on atomic energy.

Oct. 27, 1966: A missile carried an A-warhead 400 to 500 miles to detonation. The explosive force was perhaps 20,000 tons. Major Asian cities were coming within range.

Dec. 27, 1966: Probably a proof test of an H-bomb trigger, Hosmer reports. Explosive force, a few hundred thousand tons of TNT.

June 17, 1967: Proof test for an H-bomb. Its force, "several millions of tons of TNT," said the Atomic Energy Commission. Furthermore, an A-bomb, Hosmer, it was an air drop, something transportable even if only in one of China's limited-range bombers.

Vengeance Stirrs Some Dark Deeds

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Vengeance killings have left dark splotches on the Canadian crime picture.

Some have died for talking to the police, or to juries. Five of the Donnelly family died in a night of slaughter because a community rose up against them. Here are a few of the more notable cases.

FREEDOM WAS FATAL

Adam Parillo was turned loose from Montreal jail in August, 1936, with no strong expectation of living to a ripe old age. He had kicked loudly when his life sentence was sawed off at 11 years. Five months later, he stumbled up the steps of the hospital at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., loaded with lead slugs and dying.

As Parillo had figured, he became the eighth man to die as the result of Montreal's Bank of Hochelaga holdup of 1924, one of Canada's more notorious crimes of the century. The stickup of a bank delivery truck netted $142,000, which made it North America's biggest up to that time.

Two men, a bank messenger and a bandit, were killed in the shooting. The holdup man's clothing yielded a list of telephone numbers that led police to 11 persons including Mrs. Giuseppe Serafini, who was stuffing $3,000 in big bills into her stocking as they burst in.

Parillo, arrested with his $18,000 cut in Bridgeport, Conn., promptly confessed. So did Ciro Neri, driver of one of the holdup cars. The evidence sent four men to the gallows including ringleader Tony Frank, Montreal's Sicilian-born underworld boss of that period, who was ostentatiously going about his court-fixing business at the time of the killings.

Neri was not charged. Two years later his mutilated body was found in a ditch, his fingernails pulled out. Parillo got a manslaughter conviction and a life term, whose premature finish left him unprotected. No one talked after his death.

A MURDER INC. JOB

Fat Charlie Feigenbaum had been in fine voice when the police looked him up about some dope business. The result was that Charlie, a former leather manufacturer who had been dabbling in the rackets, became the subject of an efficient gangland-style execution at Montreal in 1934.

As he tossed some parcels into his car on a well-filled street, one of three men in an automobile got out and strolled his way. He fired six times from a .45 and walked back to the car. Nothing more has been heard of the executioners.

At the time, the 48-year-old Feigenbaum was the key man in Canada's biggest dope-smuggling protection of the era. Authorities had uncovered a multi-million-dollar operation running between New York, Montreal and Europe. They had hauled in Harry Davis, Montreal rackets and dope king; Pincus Brecher, who ran his New York branch office, and Feigenbaum.

Charlie, a latecomer who was just working his way up from the minor rackets, got word that he was to be allowed to take the rap and talked first. His testimony got Davis a 14-year sentence, and he was waiting for a repeat turn against Brecher when he was cut down.

There were plenty of eye-witnesses but none was of any help. Police eventually concluded the killers were for hire experts of New York's Murder Inc., then going strong.

There were a couple of epilogues. Even without the star witness, Brecher was convicted of dope smuggling a week after the Feigenbaum killing. As he was being led to the Bordeaux prison hospital to await sentence, he plunged head-first over a balcony and died.

By 1946 Davis was not long out of prison when he had a visit in his gambling house from Louis Bercovitz, another gambling man. Davis was shot to death. Bercovitz got life for manslaughter and was paroled in 1958.

THE 'BLACK DONNELLYS'
The Donnellys of Biddulph Township in Ontario's Middlesex County were roistering, pugnacious crew who loved to drink and fight.

There was father James, who had arrived from Ireland in 1847 and fatally beat up the man who got a legitimate title to the land on which he had squatted. He just missed the noose and served seven years of a commuted sentence. Son James had gone two years for shooting at a policeman. Son William had also been convicted of shooting at an officer, but that was at an Irish wedding and he got only nine months.

There had been many more charges against James and one or another of his strapping sons, though by the winter of 1880 they were tapering off. Complainants had a habit of running into more trouble, such as finding their barns burned down.

However, in February of that year the Donnellys were still moderately busy with the law. Sons John and Thomas were awaiting trial for perjury and robbery, respectively, and their mother and father were due to be tried for arson.

On the night before the elder Donnelly's trial day, about 20 masked men called at the home near Lucan, 16 miles northwest of London. They slaughtered the patriarch and his wife, along with Thomas and a 25-year-old niece, Bridget. They set the house afire before heading for William's home. John happened to be spending the night there and answered the door, to be riddled fatally with bullets. The mob left after that.

William and his wife escaped. So did Johnny O'Connor, an 11-year-old hired boy, who hid out from the massacre at the old man's house. They named several persons as the killers. A dozen men were charged, including Justice of the Peace and other solid citizens. But only one was brought to trial, and he was acquitted.

CANADA'S STORY

Saint John Surprised Visiting Canadians

By BOB BOWMAN

In June 1864 Canada, which was then only Ontario and Quebec, decided to try to expand into a federation of all the British North American colonies. This meant "selling" the idea to New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and Newfoundland. The first three were more interested in forming a union among themselves, and had already arranged to meet at Charlottetown on Sept. 1 to discuss plans. However, Canada's request to send delegates to the conference was accepted.

D'Arcy McGee and Sanford Fleming then staged perhaps the first, and certainly one of the best public relations performances in Canadian history. They realized that Maritimeers mistrusted Canadians, and were suspicious of their intentions, and so they arranged for a party of 100 members of parliament, businessmen and newspaper reporters to tour New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

There was no railway between Canada and the Maritimes. The construction of such a railway was the most important reason why the Maritimes would consider confederation. So the Canadian delegates travelled by train all night from Montreal to Portland, Maine. There were no sleeping cars. They sat up and sang all the way. Then at Portland they boarded a paddle-wheel ship which took them to Saint John on Aug. 4. The "Loyalist City" amazed them. The men dressed like lumberjacks, but wore bowler hats, chewed tobacco, and even smoked huge cigars on Sundays. The women were described as having "bright-colored dresses, swelling incredibly at the bosom, their hair brushed up in short curls on top of their heads, and their long skirts swirling and fluting over rustling crimoline petticoats."

However, the Canadians were well-received by the Saint John Board of Trade, sailed up the beautiful river to Fredericton, and created a friendly atmosphere for the Charlottetown conference. Then they went on to Halifax.

OTHER EVENTS ON AUGUST 4:

- 1693 Fort trade resumed when 200 Indians arrived from the west.
- 1791 Peace treaty with Iroquois signed at Montreal.
- 1793 French troops evacuated Fort Frederic at Green Point.
- 1795 Island of St. John (now Prince Edward Island) was separated from Nova Scotia.
- 1814 U.S. force was repulsed by British in the Battle of the Clouds.
- 1864 St. John's Harbour, founded on the site of the first railway in Canada.
- 1914 Canada began mobilizing troops for World War I.
- 1942 Tea and coffee rationing went into effect (World War II).
- 1957 Parliament Library badly damaged by fire.
- 1960 House of Commons approved Bill of Rights.

For Hockey Reform

The recently published report on amateur hockey in Canada by the hockey study committee of the national advisory council is a detailed and enlightening glimpse into the complex world of amateur hockey. The committee was chaired by W. J. L'Heureux, with the other members being Father David Bauer, Frank Dunlop, William Crothers, Dr. John Meagher and G. M. Bell.

A study of the report shows clearly the deep inroads professional teams have made into the amateur game. In fact, much of amateur hockey in Canada today is in reality only a farm system for professional teams. Under the working agreement which formerly existed between the National Hockey League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, the NHL was given complete freedom to sign the best young players to contracts. These contracts were often signed by boys very early in their careers, who were easily dazzled by the glamor of pro hockey. Once a player signed such a contract, legally he became little more than a chattel with his future in hockey completely controlled by the NHL.

Even if such a player should wish to return to amateur hockey, he could do so only with the consent of the NHL as was well illustrated in the Carl Brewer case. At a recent meeting of the two associations, the amateur body suggested that a player who had sat out one complete season should be considered eligible to play for an amateur team in future seasons. The NHL replied that such a "radical change" would be "disastrous to professional hockey." It was finally agreed that a player who sat out two seasons could be reinstated as an amateur with the consent of the professional club who owns the right to his services. This policy is considered to be needlessly harsh by the committee report.

Another example of professional control is the permitted practice of transferring the better players to a few outstanding junior teams where a careful eye can be kept on the players' development. This explains why a handful of expensively financed junior teams with large budgets completely dominate amateur hockey today.

As the committee noted, an inevitable side effect of "a system which permits 14- to 18-year-olds to be moved from community to community, indeed from province to province without the accompanying move of their parents" is the cultivation of "hockey bums," in many cases.

The committee also noted that the loss of these young players from the communities that develop them "has been singled out by many as the most serious handicap to the success of hockey, particularly in smaller centers in the country." Needless to say, it has also taken much of the excitement out of the junior game today.

To meet these and other problems, the committee recommended that the CAHA should be completely autonomous and independent of the NHL. Under the most recent arrangement between the two bodies, the CAHA has agreed to accept an annual grant of at least $250,000 a year from the NHL.

The advisory council committee felt that this arrangement guaranteed continued professional domination of the amateur game.

The committee recommended that the CAHA should be supported from branch-member fees, playoff receipts and unconditional grants from the professional teams. In addition, the federal government should make available grants sufficient to guarantee the independence of the CAHA from professional hockey.

It also recommended that the age limit for junior competition should remain open to players under 21 years of age as of December 31 of the current playing season. With only minor exceptions, the pros should be prevented from tampering or dealing with these players until they had completed their junior hockey. At that time a draft could take place of all over-age junior players. These players could then either join the professional team which drafted them or remain in amateur hockey.

The hockey study committee also recommended that the federal government initiate legislation to guarantee to amateur hockey freedom from the National Hockey League. Provincial governments were called upon to consider legislation to protect young athletes of 18 years and under from contracts with professional teams which might interfere with "their pursuit of amateur hockey or their education or their moral or physical well-being." Furthermore, they urged that schools and universities should be encouraged vigorously to promote and develop interschool hockey for their students.

At a time when hockey in Canada is passing through a confusing and difficult period, these and other recommendations contained in the report make constructive reading. Indeed it seems clear that the thousands of Canadians who share the interest of the committee members in hockey and who act as unpaid administrators, or coaches, or referees, or even simply buy skates or sticks for youngsters, do far more to develop hockey players in Canada than the owners of the professional teams who earn such large profits from the game. — Robert S. McKenzie in the Winnipeg Free Press.

Driver's Seat Too Much For Him

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOINER

Dear Dr. Moiner:

I work for an organization whose boss is in his 70s. In the last two years he has progressively shown signs of senility and on two occasions had what seemed to be mild strokes.

His memory is failing, his speech at times halting and incoherent. He is often irritable. (He has always been a mild man.)

He is prominent in the community and has done much good work over the years, but those of us who are associated closely with him fear he will slowly destroy his good image. He avoids talk of retirement and works more passionately now than he has ever worked, as far as hours go.

How can we tell if he has arteriosclerosis? How can we deal with this situation with charity and concern for him? We feel it would be best for all concerned if he would retire, but are afraid he will think we are trying to get him "out of the way."

Would you discuss this in general terms? We wish to do what is best for him and the organization. Is it ethical to speak to his doctor about this? — M.A.M.

But the real question isn't whether he "has arteriosclerosis." The real reason for any of us to get out of the driver's seat is that we no longer can do as good a job as needs to be done.

A physician can examine this man and make an accurate estimate of the condition of his arteries, but keep this in mind: There is no sharp line between the person who "has arteriosclerosis" and the person who does not. This is a progressive thing, and natural.

We start "getting old" the day we are born. Call it maturing, developing, ripening, aging, or what you will.

You must decide business matters on a business basis, health matters on a health basis. You don't say whether the boss is president, sole owner, director, manager or what, but unless he is sole owner, it would seem probable that the decision is up to the board of directors, the executive committee, or whatever group is the ultimate authority.

No. I do not think you should go to his doctor. If the condition and circumstances warrant it, you might go to the boss's family (wife or children) and tell them the situation. They then could talk to his doctor. There is a sharp line between kindness and a balance guard for another's foolishness. This applies to the boss who is coming to the end of his career, and I hope ways can be found to have him let go of the reins gently and willingly.

Canucks Do Themselves Out Of A Job In Tanzania

DAR ES SALAAM (CP)—Canadian servicemen in Tanzania are working themselves out of a job.

And many of the 80 airmen and 40 soldiers stationed in this East African country consider Dar es Salaam one of the top overseas postings.

They are advisers for Tanzania's People's Defence Forces, a role that involves all phases of army operations and the establishment of an air wing for the integrated military group.

The Canadians are here at the request of the Tanzanians and when enough Tanzanian officers have acquired the skills being taught the job will be done.

Sipping a cool drink in a large patio that faced Oyster Bay on the Indian Ocean at the northern edge of this capital, Major Arthur Potts of Saskatoon and Kingston, Ont., said both he and his wife are in no real hurry to leave.

"Where else can I get a chance to go on an elephant hunt on my holidays?"

The major did not get himself an elephant, but the experience was great. On another hunt he bagged a zebra and the hide now hangs in the Potts home here.

PLENTY TO DO

"This has to be one of the nice places to live in Africa. I never miss a morning dip in the bay. Not far from here there are a golf course, a riding academy, tennis courts and a cool bar. It was built by the Brits but we are welcome to use it."

Potts, whose father Arthur Edward joined the army as a private and retired in Kingston in 1946 as a major-general, was a member of the original team that arrived two years ago after President Julius Nyerere asked Canada to provide a military advisory group.

The Canadians hold no executive power in the Tanzanian forces, which comprise three battalions of 1,000 men each and an air wing. Fifteen transport planes include eight Otters and four Buffalo craft from Canada.

"We advise on policy and operations from the ground up," said Potts, whose twin brother, Joe, is a Toronto lawyer. A second brother, Lt.-Col. Robert Potts, is attached to the Royal Canadian Engineers in Winnipeg.

"The job is to acquaint Tanzanian officers with the problems of handling their units, training recruits for assorted jobs and assisting in the operation of an NCO course."

TO TRAIN OFFICERS

Since the Canadians arrived the Tanzanian Military Academy has been established here and it is hoped a staff officers' course soon will be initiated.

Present Tanzanian staff officers received their training in a variety of countries, both Eastern and Western.

"We work with a few chaps from Zanzibar (considered a Communist stronghold) but politics don't play a part in our job and we get along, usually on a first-name basis," said Potts, who saw previous service in Korea, Cyprus, Indochina with the International Control Commission and two tours of duty in West Germany.

Aside from staff officers, posted here for two years, the Canadian team includes a number of technical instructors, assigned to Tanzania for 12 months.

The original commander, Col. H. E. C. Price of Quebec, is being succeeded this summer by Group Capt. Frank Sheffield of Ottawa.

Most members of the Tanzanian air wing received basic flight training in Canada. Eight Canadian pilots here provide advance cross-country training.

Plenty Of Separatism Rampant Inside de Gaulle's Own Country

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle is waving the flag for Quebec separatists but completely snubbing separatist movements in his own country.

France, in fact, is the home of six movements calling themselves nationalist, separatist or autonomist. The Bretons in the northwest, Basques in the southwest, Flemish in the northeast, Alsations in the east, Corsicans in the Mediterranean, and the Occitans, who are a story in themselves.

Perhaps de Gaulle does not take these movements seriously. Few French people do. But start fires or block railways to reach the public eye.

The Bretons are Celts with a language similar to Welsh or ancient Cornish. They claim nationhood since defeating King Charles the Bald in 845, and now can draw 300 to 400 patriots to Independence Day outings at the site of the battle.

WRECK STATION

The latest Breton bomb wrecked a telephone relay station, when de Gaulle was in Montreal shouting "Long live free Quebec."

"Free Quebec—free Brittany" signs quickly cropped up in Brittany and elsewhere.

For 50 years the Bretons agitated for the Celtic language in schools, without success. Today they concentrate on the chronic economic malaise of Brittany, seen largely as the supplier of sailors and maids for the rest of France.

The Bretons do not oppose government policy as much as the centralized system. They say the "state structures" choke the arteries before the juice arrives.

The solution sought is therefore a federalism, similar to that of West Germany or Switzerland, with vastly more autonomy for schools, taxes, foreign trade, television and culture.

WIN ALLOWANCES

The Bretons have recently won a legal point. Celtic names now qualify children for family allowances instead of only those of saints or historic personalities. Time was when the strange-sounding names were not legally accepted by birth recording offices.

The Basque community, astride the French-Spanish frontier, claims cultural origins so old their language defies tracing. Like the Bretons, they feel the urge for cultural preservation, but their economic needs are not so acute.

About 3,000 belong to the movement called Embata, whose goal is "the reunification and autonomy of the Basque country within the framework of Europe under construction."

The Basques were quick to seize on the de Gaulle incident to plaster walls with "Long live free Quebec" and "Long live the free Basque country."

The other movements are as small as private clubs. The Flemish support their Belgian brothers, the Alsations can't live down their Germanic origins and the Corsican government is largely a family affair.

That leaves the Occitans, who favor saying "oi" for "oui."

Yard' Criticized On New Headquarters

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard was criticized by members of Parliament in London spending too much public money on its new headquarters.

A report by the all-party public accounts committee disclosed that the yard spent $5,180,000 in fitting out the massive office block in Victoria Street—four times the original estimate. The expenditure "showed scant regard" for the public interest, the committee said. The new headquarters was occupied last March.

Ancient Cannons Found On Seabed

SCILLY ISLES (Reuters)—A team of treasure-hunters found three ancient cannons on the Atlantic seabed near these islands off southwest England.

The cannons were seen where the British flag ship Association was wrecked in a fog in 1701 with three other warships. The Association was reported to have been carrying loot worth about $5,000,000 captured in a Mediterranean expedition.

South Africa Finds It Hard To Stem Flow Into Cities

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—For years the South African government has been trying to stem the tide of Africans streaming from rural areas into the country's cities.

Laws have been passed and regulations introduced, but still the figures swell.

Government spokesmen now say this rural exodus will be reversed by 1978 under a series of apartheid-race segregation laws.

The laws form part of a master plan to resettle Africans in special reserves and carve up the country into black- and white-owned areas.

It seeks to govern by regulation every conceivable reason an African may have to visit or work in the higher-paying cities.

An African farm worker may earn six rand—$6.40—while a laborer in a Johannesburg textile factory may get more than 30 rand—$42—in wages every month.

Casual visits from country areas for longer than 72 hours are governed by permits. The onus lies on the African to prove he has been there a shorter time.

As part of its master plan to initiate the push-back to the rural areas, the country's all-white government has racially segregated nearly every social amenity.

These include sports, entertainment, travel in public transport, housing. One law—the Job Reservation Act—empowers the government to set aside certain jobs for whites only.

Most Africans working in cities must live in specially proclaimed "locations" or townships, sometimes many miles from their place of employment.

At all times Africans have to carry a special pass permitting them to be in an urban area. Arrest could follow if it is not produced for an inquiring policeman.

Besides the pass, one guide advises: "Every African should keep in his possession all documents he or she has ever had: Such things as birth certificates, baptismal certificates, school certificates, references, housing permits, hospital and clinic cards, prison discharge papers, rent receipts and death and burial certificates."

If proof of the right to be in an urban area cannot be produced, the African is sent back to the rural area from where he originally came. Fines and imprisonment await violators.

Red tape makes it so difficult for rural Africans to seek work in cities that many take a chance and enter illegally.

Despite government steps to reverse the tide, more than 230,000 Africans streamed into the cities during 1965. More than 86,000 were sent back.

South Africa's population is 18,288,000, of which 12,455,000 are Africans, 547,000 Asians, 1,805,000 mulattos and 3,481,000 whites.

Let's Talk Peace, Lessen War, Say South Vietnam Candidates

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's presidential campaign officially opened today as a leading civilian candidate for vice-president called for scaling down of the war and negotiations with the Viet Cong.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, the ruling military junta's vice-presidential candidate, also talked about a peace settlement but spoke in terms of the Communists giving up "some day." He said there would be no pause in the bombing of North Vietnam until South Vietnam and its supporters are sure Hanoi will respond to such a pause.

Phan Quang Dan, running mate of presidential candidate Phan Khac Suu, told a news conference: "It is impossible to fight the Communists like we are now. It would be better to have a shouting war rather than a shooting war."

He proposed negotiations with the Communists "at all levels, including the National Liberation Front," the political arm of the Viet Cong.

The provisional assembly July 18 banned peace candidate Au Truong Thanh from running in the Sept. 3 election. Thanh's ticket was one of three cast out for "pro-communism, neutralism or suspicion of having Viet Cong contacts." Thanh, former interior minister under Ky, has denied the charges.

Suu is president of the provisional assembly. He sat alongside Dan said their platform calls for issuing parcels of land to all peasants on an equal basis and cancelling peasants' taxes until the war ends.

PRODUCT OF WAR

"The Communists made these kinds of offers and the peasants prefer communism right now because they think they will own their land and not pay taxes when the war ends," he said. "Why can't we make such an offer?"

Tran Van Huong, 65-year-old former mayor of Saigon who is considered the leading civilian candidate for president, also held a news conference with his running mate, Mai Tho Truyen. They said the government must seek a political solution to the war but not "peace at any price."

Ky, running mate of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, made his statements during a tour of a Roman Catholic hospital in Ho Nai, about 20 miles from Saigon. He said "something decisive" could be expected soon in the war but would not say what or when.

Fishermen's Union Secretary Accuses Prince Rupert Co-Op

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Homer Stevens, secretary of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, Wednesday accused the Prince Rupert Co-Op and fishing companies in this north coast town of joining forces to defeat a strike.

Mr. Stevens was commenting on the calling off of a four-month strike of UFAWU members following rejection of a jurisdictional agreement by the rival Deep Sea Fishermen's Union.

The UFAWU also removed unfair charges against boats operated by members of the Prince Rupert Fishing Vessel Owners' Association.

This meant the boats were free to land their catches at any shore plant.

Mr. Stevens said he believed the vessel owners will try to stall any settlement until the fishing season ends in mid-September and that the attorney-general and courts had acted against the union.

The two unions are involved in a bitter jurisdictional battle over control of northern coastal fishermen. The agreement, drawn up by labor official Ed Sims, was accepted by the UFAWU.

The 14-point peace pact would have divided jurisdiction over herring trawlers and salmon boats between the two unions.

Reports said the Deep Sea Union rejected the plan almost unanimously.

The UFAWU went on strike against the vessel owners' association when the association recognized the Deep Sea union as bargaining agents for fishermen manning its boats. The strike led to a major tруп of herring boats.

During the picketing that ensued, Mr. Stevens and two other UFAWU leaders were jailed for a year each for contempt of B.C. Supreme Court injunctions. They were subsequently released on bail pending appeals.

HYDROTHERAPY TREATMENT BENEFITS CARS PATIENTS

(Courier Photo)

On Wednesday afternoons CARS patients are driven by car to the home of Mrs. D. A. Hindle, Hobson Road, where they undergo an afternoon of hydrotherapy treatment in Mrs. Hindle's lakeshore swimming pool which is heated to 92 degrees for the occasion. In the picture above the new mechanical patient lifter which is used to lower the more sizable patients into the pool is shown on the right. Five patients are seen exercising on the parallel bars under the supervision of two CARS therapists, Mrs. Jim Burbridge and Miss Laverna

Brown, and the four patients in the background are seated on weighted stools waiting for their turn to exercise. The buoyancy of the heated water takes the weight off painful joints enabling the patients to walk and move more easily and they thoroughly enjoy this weekly outing as well as benefitting therefrom. In the pool Wednesday when the picture was taken are Mrs. H. C. Mitchell, Mrs. D. Mahle, Mrs. M. Connolly, Mrs. D. Harshenin, Mrs. K. M. Kaba-toff, Mrs. M. Kato, A. Ingelton and W. Belan.

Banff AOTS National Convention To Be Family Affair This Year

"New Horizons" for men in United Church congregations will be the theme of their centennial project when the AOTS (As One That Serves) national convention meets at the Banff School of Fine Arts, August 26 to 28. The program is designed to spotlight the needs of modern-day men in churches, men's clubs and communities.

The biennial rally of United Church men will have a special western touch and because of the unexcelled vacation environment, it has been made a full family affair for the first time. Separate programs have been set up for wives and children, including scenic tours of the Rocky Mountain region.

A streamlined agenda is packed into less than two full days, making it feasible for businessmen to take in the weekend conference with little loss of time. It will open with a cook-out supper on Saturday, August 26 and close with business sessions and an official luncheon Monday, August 28. Keynote address by Dr. Bob Hatfield, an outstanding churchmen's speaker, will open the convention on Saturday evening.

Discussions, workshops and a sunrise communion service will be packed into the Sunday program, which will close with a banquet featuring as guest speaker Hon. Grant MacEwan, Alberta's Lieutenant-Governor and one of Canada's foremost national figures. The banquet will be sponsored by the Alberta Government.

AROUND TOWN

Excitement in Kelowna is now centering around Regatta week and acceptances are coming in daily from Regatta's out-of-town special guests. Saskatchewan is the Honor Province this year, and the Commodore of Kelowna's 61st Annual Regatta is Lieutenant-Governor R. L. Hanbridge, Q.C., of Saskatchewan, who will arrive from Regina on August 8 with Mrs. Hanbridge, and will be accommodated at the Capri Motor Hotel until the end of Regatta.

Vice-commodore this year is the Mayor of Regina, H. H. P. Baker who will also arrive on August 8 with Mrs. Baker, and will be staying at Capri throughout Regatta.

Vice-commodore Louis H. Lewry, mayor of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan will spend the four days of Regatta at Capri.

Vice-commodore E. G. Hudson, mayor of Lloydminster, Saskatchewan will be the guest of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Balmer, Lambert Avenue, during Regatta.

Honorary vice-commodore this year is David Pugh, M.P. who will commute from Oliver with Mrs. Pugh.

The Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, Hon. George Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes are coming to the Regatta from Victoria and will be staying at Capri.

Colonel D. N. D. Dean Freeman of Vancouver will be spending the week in Vernon and commute daily to Regatta.

The Honorable J. Percy Page and Mrs. Page from Edmonton will arrive Thursday for Regatta and will be staying at Capri.

W. G. Swan of the Swan Wooster Engineering Firm in Vancouver will be here to attend Regatta on Wednesday and Thursday. Colonel Swan was Regatta Commodore in 1962 and was consulting engineer for the Okanagan Lake bridge. He will be staying at Capri.

A pre-Regatta spectacular will be the NHL star-studded hockey game at the Memorial Arena on Saturday evening, which will be followed by a reception for some 300 guests at the Kelowna Aquatic.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Turcotte this week have been Mr. and Mrs. Harold Simmons Sr., from Galt, Ontario, accompanied by their son Harold Simmons and his wife and daughter from Edmonton, and his twin brother Alex and his wife from Galt.

Mrs. Helen Hutchings, Lawrence Avenue, returned on Tuesday from a motor trip to Waterton, Alberta, where she was a guest of honor at the annual meeting of the Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park Association, a Rotary organization of which Mr. Hutchings was president at the time of his death in 1964. Featured speaker at the Saturday evening banquet was Richard I. Evans of Salt Lake City, Utah, president of the Rotary International. En route home Mrs. Hutchings visited Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Baird in Lethbridge.

Major R. J. Talbot, B.C. Dragons who is taking a week's middle-staff course at the Canadian Staff College in Kingston, Ontario, will be joined by his wife on August 11 when they plan to enjoy a week visiting Expo 67 before returning home.

Miss Linda Bucholtz arrived home this week, following a year and a half of study in Lubbeck, West Germany. She returned to Kelowna via Montreal and Vancouver and will be visiting her family here until September.

Former Kelownians, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pow, who were married in Saskatchewan 60 years ago, will be celebrating their wedding anniversary on Monday, August 7 at their home on Black Rock Road, B.V. Vernon from 2-5 p.m. and their many Kelowna friends will be most welcome to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. William Prothro of Spokane who visited friends in Kelowna Thursday have continued on to Adventure Bay for the weekend where they will be joined today by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Stakes of Spokane who have also been visiting friends in Kelowna.

At the Monday afternoon session of the VernaMarie Bridge Club, held at the Women's Institute Hall, the results were: N/S, first, Mrs. Dennis Purcell and Mrs. Warren Wilkinson; second, Mrs. Arthur Lander and Mrs. David Allan; third, Vladimir Andreev and Gordon Holmes. E/W, first, Mrs. H. E. Sullivan and Mrs. Gordon Holmes, tied with Mrs. R. J. Buchanan and Mrs. W. J. MacKenzie; third, Mrs. Roy Vanatter and Mrs. Leslie Real. Next Monday afternoon the club will hold a fractional master point meeting.

FAMILY REUNION

Some fifty direct descendants of the late Edwin Weddell are planning a Centennial family reunion, to be held on Saturday evening at Capri. Mr. Weddell, who was born one hundred years ago in Hawick, Scotland came to Kelowna in 1891 and became magistrate in 1913. The reunion evening will begin with a family dinner party, following which anyone wishing to renew old acquaintanceships will be most welcome to drop in at the reception after 8:30 p.m. at the Capri Motor Hotel.

ANN LANDERS

Saving Embarrassment Is The Best Approach

Dear Ann Landers: I am an X-ray technician in a hospital. This morning a man was brought up for X-rays. He was wearing a bathrobe. When I asked him to remove his robe I assumed he had something on under the robe (most men do). I discovered, too late, that I was mistaken.

After my initial surprise I composed myself and decided to ignore the situation and proceed as usual.

Later that afternoon I was telling two other girls in the department what had happened. I thought I had dealt with the situation well. They said I did the wrong thing—that I should have told the patient to go back to the dressing room and put on his shorts. It developed into quite an argument and the girls became upset with me. I am so unstrung about their bitter criticism that I decided to write for your common sense opinion.

SUZANNE
Dear Suzanne: The best approach is the one which causes the patient a minimum of embarrassment.

Sending the man back to put on his shorts would have humiliated the poor fellow. You coped with the situation admirably and I salute you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am in my 60's. My wife is a few years younger. We have been married 40 years. My wife has never been employed outside the home which was all right with me. She raised a nice family and I never asked her to take a paying job.

Now that I am getting on in years I feel my energy ebbing. I want to retire when I become eligible but my wife is against it. My income will be somewhat less if I retire, but we could manage it. I am beginning to resent my wife because she seems more interested in the paycheck than in my health. Please tell me what you think—NO IDENTIFICATION.

Dear N.I.D.: Perhaps your wife's objection has nothing to do with the paycheck. Maybe she is concerned with what retirement might do to you emotionally.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAY BECKER (Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

TEST YOUR PLAY 1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts. The bidding has been:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1	Pass	2
2	3	Pass	3
Pass	4	Pass	3

North leads the three of spades. South wins with the ace and returns the nine of diamonds. You win in dummy and lead a heart. South following with the three. How would you play the hand?

♠	AJ10987	♠	1042
♥	K742	♥	652
♦	Q2	♦	AQJ53
♣		♣	A7

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North, who opened the bidding with three spades, leads the queen of spades. How would you play the hand?

♠	K4	♠	A7
♥	A104	♥	QJ63
♦	K942	♦	A75
♣	10963	♣	KQJ2

1. The diamond return is obviously a singleton; otherwise, South's play would make no sense. The problem is whether to finesse the heart or go up with the ace and forestall the ruff.

Strangely enough, the finesse is the right play. The danger of a ruff is more imaginary than the real. True, it may occur, but if it does, you surely make the contract.

Let's say you finesse and lose to an honor, after which North returns a diamond which South ruffs. That is the third trick for the defense, but it is also their last. Regardless of what South returns, you win, draw the remaining trump, and run dummy's diamonds, discarding a club on the last one.

The finesse is a safety measure to guard against South's having a hand such as: Spade AJ985 Heart KQ3 Diamond 9 Club 986

If that were his hand, going up with the ace would lose the contract because, as soon as South got in with a trump, he would lead a club to establish the setting trick.

2. North probably has seven spades and an ace of the club or heart king as an entry. If he has them both, the contract cannot be made, so you assume he has only one of them. North's entry must be eliminated before the spades are established, and the question is which suit to attack first. The proper play is to win the spade in dummy, lead the queen of hearts, and finesse. If North has the king, he is no longer a threat, and you later force out the club ace to make four notrump. If South has the king, the finesse works and you make at least four notrump.

To attack clubs ahead of hearts would be fatal if South had the ace and North had the king of hearts.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Do not expect too much of Saturday's morning hours when you may be faced with some obstacles to your plans with consequent confusion. P.M. influences improve considerably, however, and you should not only solve all problems, but have an extremely enjoyable evening.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that you are currently in an excellent period for making long-range plans. Stellar influences are not auspicious for achieving immediate gains in either financial or occupational matters (in fact, conservatism and caution should be "musts" for the next four-and-a-half months), but plans conceived now and followed up conscientiously should bring excellent results between December 21st and February 15th. Further upturns in monetary interests are indicated during next June, July and August.

After the aforementioned late December, early February will also be excellent for job matters; your next good periods, career-wise, will occur during the latter half of April, in mid-May, June and August.

Domestic and social interests should prove harmonious for most of the year ahead, with the exception of brief periods in early March and/or early June and for the single new romance and/or marriage is a strong likelihood either in September, late December (an all-around good period), in April or May. Most propitious periods for travel: Next February, late May and the entire months of June, July and August.

A child born on this day will be endowed with a keenly analytical mind, great determination, self-reliance and creative ability.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS IN MONTREAL

Wimbledon semi-finalist Kathy Harter of the U.S. is the top seeded women's player to compete in the Canadian Tennis Championships which start today at the Monkland Tennis Club in Montreal. Miss Harter lost to Billie Jean King of the U.S. in the women's singles.

The 'Judo Strangler' Captures A Gold Medal

WINNIPEG (CP)—Doug Rogers of Vancouver has finally won a gold medal in judo at the Pan-American Games. But it was the losing finalist who got all choked up.

The 26-year-old airline pilot, who lost a close decision to Allan Coige of New York in the heavyweight final last Monday, left nothing to chance Thursday night when he competed a second time in the unlimited division.

After disposing of three opponents quickly by falls, he came up against another American, James Westbrook of Oakland, Calif.

To the surprise of the packed house of 5,000 at the St. James Centenary Arena, the 200-pound Westbrook threw the 260-pound Rogers to the canvas at the three-minute mark and pounced on him, looking for the decisive fall.

LOCKED IN GRIP

To the surprise of Westbrook, he promptly found his opponent's brawny arm locked in a vise-like grip around his neck. "It was part of his strategy," the rough American told reporters after officials had stopped the bout and brought him back to consciousness.

"I was fighting my fight when suddenly I heard a noise. Then I saw him standing there and I thought, 'my god, he's won.'"

It was the only medal for Canada on a relatively quiet day at the Games that saw only four championships decided.

Favored Mexico and Argentina won gold medals in soccer and field hockey, the Mexicans breaking loose in overtime to subdue Bermuda 4-0 while the Argentines crushed Trinidad and Tobago 5-0.

Canada's field hockeyists, unbeaten in the preliminary round but ousted by Trinidad in their semi-final, were beaten out of a third-place bronze medal when they lost 1-0 to the United States in a clash of losing semi-finalists.

SOLD FOR U.S.

The Americans took their only gold of the day in the team chess fencing competition, in which Canada was eliminated in the semi-finals.

It was the 97th gold medal for the U.S., with Canada and Brazil next in line with nine apiece. Canada's total medal bag reached 71.

Heats were run off in three rowing events and the Canadian coxed four reached its final by winning its race. The University of British Columbia eight finished 12 lengths behind the formidable Harvard crew and the coxed pair lost to Uruguay by a similar margin.

Both boats were expected to qualify without difficulty tonight in their second-chance repechages, in which the first three finishers progress to Saturday's final.

Lack of entries in the other four rowing events made qualifying heats unnecessary.

UBC coach Wayne Pretty was undismayed by the eight's defeat.

"I thought before the race that we could beat them and I haven't changed my thinking," he said. "We were stroking 39 at the end."

Four Canadian boxers bit the dust as lightweight Gerald Rate of Outremont, Que., put his Cuban opponent on the canvas twice in the first round before getting knocked out himself in the second.

Three Vancouver fighters, featherweight Wayne Boyce, light-welterweight Dick Findlay and welterweight Fred Fuller, lost decisions.

The Canadian men's volleyball team lost its last chance for a medal with its defeat by Cuba in the final pool but the women's basketball team retained a chance for a bronze despite a one-point loss to the United States.

Action in track and field resumes today with an evening program that includes the final of the men's long jump and 110-metre hurdles and the women's high jump. There will also be heats in the men's 400-metre relay, women's 800 and women's 80-metre hurdles.

College Stars To Meet Packers

CHICAGO (AP)—One of the most talented college All-Star teams in history takes on Green Bay Packers tonight in the 34th annual mid-summer football game.

But the Packers, champions of U.S. professional football, have installed two-touchdown favorites in the game.

The pros lead the series 22-9-2 and the Packers last year swamped the Stars 38-0 to avenge a 20-17 loss in 1963, the last time the All-Stars tasted victory in the series.

There Is No More Argument - Rutland Has Third Place

In a sudden death game, Rutland Rovers whipped Vernon O'Keefes 10-3 Thursday at King's Stadium. The win gave Rutland undisputed possession of third place in the Kelowna and District Softball League. Both clubs were tied for third at the end of the season.

Rovers will meet Royal Anne Royals in the first game of the semi-finals which start Sunday at King's Stadium at 7:30 p.m. It will be a best-of-three series. Other games will be played Tuesday and Thursday if necessary.

Vernon will meet Willow Inn Willows in the other semi-final which starts Monday. The series continues Wednesday.

Ken Hehn who worked five innings was the winning pitcher. It was his sixth win of the season against three losses. Red Odleffson was charged with the loss.

Rutland scored five runs in the fourth inning to clinch the victory. They had scored single runs in the first and third but the lead was erased when Vernon scored three times in the third.

The Rovers got home runs from center fielder Joe Ueyama and first baseman Don Krochinsky. The latter's was a two-run blast in the fifth. Ueyama had three hits and drew a walk in five plate appearances. Dick Kitch also had three hits for the Rovers.

Vernon was unable to mount a sustained attack off either Hehn or reliever Arnie Rath. They got the runs in the third on one hit—a double by Lorne Shockey—and two walks.

Little League All Stars Stopped In First Encounter

Kelowna Little League All Stars were knocked off in the first round of the Area Two playoffs dropping a 5-4, 10-inning contest to Trail.

Trail now advances to the final against either Kamloops who edged Revelstoke 1-0 or Beaver Valley who drew a bye into the second round.

Trail slapped out five consecutive hits in the tenth inning off reliever Johnny Gerk but scored just once. Two runners were cut down on the basepaths before a two-out double by catcher Dubs Donato brought in the winning run.

Gerk was pitching his first inning of relief. Mark Lang went the first nine innings for Kelowna and gave up four runs on four hits. He walked three and fanned 11. In the words of manager Art Hoffman, "Lang pitched a tremendous game."

Lang was lifted after nine innings because of a Little League ruling preventing pitchers from working more than nine innings in a single game.

Right fielder Gary Kielbiski had two hits in four plate appearances for Kelowna as did Paul Hatch. Brian Brooks had two hits in five at-bats while Randy Dillman lashed a pinch-hit double.

Winners and Losers Meet In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—The is on the Riders active list, but teams that were the best and won't play, said Keys.

The B.C. Lions have made more changes than any club in Canadian football, with 14 new faces in their lineup, 10 of them rookies.

Coach Dave Skrien of the Lions believes he has the raw talent to gain a playoff berth this season, but the clock is running against him.

Skrien, and his three new assistants, are working hard to piece the rookie jigsaw together, but the Lions play five games in the next three weeks. The answer might come too late.

Skrien received bad news after the Calgary game when he learned he probably will have to play The Roughriders without fullback Larry Elmes.

Elmes again pulled the hamstring muscle that plagued him through training camp. His absence will force Skrien to insert rookie Ted Gerela, the club's placement kicker, into the offensive backfield.

HYDROPLANES

Only Five More To Qualify

SEATTLE (AP)—Five boats were still to be qualified today as the final day of time trials began for Sunday's Gold Cup unlimited hydroplane race on Lake Washington.

Three of the jumbo hydros were qualified Thursday, temporarily filling the 12-boat field for the race, but five of the 12 could be bumped by boats setting faster speeds today.

Bill Schumacher piloted Miss Bardahl around the three-lap course at an average speed of 114.407 miles per hour for the fastest qualifying time Thursday. He was followed by Mike Thomas in Miss Budweiser at 109.017 m.p.h. and Bob Miller in Savoir's Probe at 108.090 m.p.h.

Atlas Van Lines, S. Bill, Smithoff, Gale's Rootertail and The Dutchman still had a chance to qualify today.

There appeared to be some doubt among racing officials Thursday whether Saturday's Seafair Race would go on as scheduled. Under the rules for the unlimiteds, three boats which record a speed of at least 100 m.p.h. but do not qualify for the Gold Cup will race in the Seafair event.

A Message To Runners - Watch Out For Carl

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Carl Yastrzemski's arm has claimed another victim and that makes five base runners in 10 days who have learned the hard way the Boston slugger can field and throw as well as he can hit.

Yaz threw out Mike Hersherberger trying to score in the sixth inning Thursday and then the Red Sox rallied for three runs in their half and a 5-3 victory over Kansas City Athletics. That cut one half game off Chicago's American League lead and left the Sox two games behind.

Dave Morehead hurled five shutout innings to pick up the victory against Kansas City. Hersherberger, who had doubled with two out, tried to score on Dick Green's hit but Yastrzemski nailed him. It was the ninth assist this season for the Boston outfielder and his fifth in Boston's 12-game home stand which ended Thursday.

"I'd rather not have the opportunity to make them," Yastrzemski said. "It only means there are runners on base, trying to score."

In the only other American League game Thursday, Detroit Tigers blanked Baltimore 5-0 on Denny McLain's three-hit performance. In the only National League game played, Atlanta Braves bombed Chicago with seven homers and ripped the Cubs 10-3.

Yastrzemski, who leads the league in runs batted in with 78, upped his batting average to .321-third best in the league—with two hits. He doubled in the third and came in on George Scott's single as Boston pecked away at Kansas City's early 3-0 lead.

Mike Andrews was the Red Sox' other hero. He drove in three runs with a homer and a two-run single.

Third place Detroit also picked up a half game on the White Sox by whipping Baltimore in a game called by rain in the eighth inning. The Tigers are three games behind.

McLain was in control all the way, notching his 13th victory. Bill Freehan drove in two Tiger runs with a pair of singles and Al Kaline touched off two rallies with doubles.

Joe Torre and Clete Boyer led Atlanta's homer spree against the Cubs with two apiece. Tony Aaron, Tito Francona and Dennis Menke also connected.

Torre also doubled, singled and walked for a perfect day, scoring three runs and driving in two.

Aaron's homer was his 27th of the year and gave the veteran Braves' slugger his 1,509th career RBI.

The loss dropped the slumping Cubs six full games behind first place St. Louis in the National League race.

Canadian Women Golfers Win In First Rounds Of Tournament

ANCASTER, Ont. (CP)—Canada took a step Thursday toward dethroning Great Britain as Commonwealth women's golf champion.

The Canadian team, runner-up to Great Britain in 1959 and third-place finishers behind Great Britain and Australia in Australia in 1963, scored six consecutive wins in the opening rounds of the third Commonwealth women's golf matches at the Hamilton Golf and Country Club.

Playing Australia, Canada won both 18-hole foursomes in the first round added four more wins in second round singles competition.

Britain also won its two foursomes, but could gain only a split with New Zealand in singles competition.

Going into today's action, Canada has six points, Great Britain four, New Zealand two, and Australia none.

Canada started its victory string when Marlene Stewart, Streit, of Ponthill, Ont., and Gail Harvey Moore of New Westminster, B.C., won up over Australia's Marea Hickey and Barbara Dolson.

The Canadians made it two in a row when Marilyn Palmer of Kamloops B.C., combined with Gail Hitchens of West Vancouver, B.C., to beat Australia's Betty Dalgleish and Carole Blair 3 and 1.

Britain's wins over New Zealand in the foursomes were registered by Elizabeth Chadwick and Ann Irvin over Jane Butler and Glennis Taylor, 4 and 3 and by Bridget Jackson and Vivian Saunders over Heather Booth and Natalie White, 5 and 4. Canada's 18-hole singles victories were registered by Mrs. Streit, Mrs. Moore, Helene Gagnon, of Avida, Que., and Miss Hitchens.

Nobody Will Believe This But Argos Won A Ball Game

MONTREAL (CP)—Toronto Argonauts will stand a two-touchdown fourth-quarter charge by Montreal Alouettes Thursday night to win an Eastern Football Conference exhibition football game 26-22 before a rain-drenched crowd of 15,000 fans.

It was the final exhibition for both clubs and at left Toronto with a 3-1 record and Montreal winless in three starts.

The pre-season tilt could prove a costly one for both clubs.

Alouettes' halfback Ron Westbrook was injured in the second quarter of the opening quarter and sequence of the opening quarter while Toronto's Mario Mariani was knocked unconscious and removed from the field on a stretcher at 10:52 of the final quarter. Both were taken to hospital by ambulance.

Toronto's Bill Symons scored second and fourth-quarter touchdowns on two and 40-yard runs. John Vilunas kicked three field goals from distances of 22, 19 and 30 yards out and added a point on Symons' first in a safety touch in the first and third quarters rounded out the winners' scoring.

Als Roger Murphy combined with quarterback Carroll Williams for a long first-quarter touchdown while halfback Don Lisbon and Williams ran over for the others late in the fourth quarter.

Dave Lewis added a single in the first quarter and Ron Parsons was good on three convert attempts.

Montreal led 8-2 after the first quarter, but the Argos outplayed them badly in the second, which was played in a torrential down-pour and electrical storm, and maintained their edge. They led 12-8 at the half and 17-8 after three quarters.

The Argos had 14 first downs to 11 for the Montrealers. They rushed for 201 yards and traveled 189 through the air. The Als went along the ground for 224 yards and through the air for 186. Williams completed four of seven passes for 152 yards and Wally Gahler was good on eight of 13 tries for 136 yards for 15 tries.

New Football Rule Book Has Nine Main Points

By BRUCE LEVEY
Canadian Press Sports Editor

"The referee is not a blind old bat; why, he can't be a day over 70."

Funny? Possibly. Costly? Decidedly—all the way from 10 yards to personal disqualification.

It's all there in the Canadian Football League's new rule book, three years in the making and the first major revision in about 25 years.

None of the 20 old rules and uncounted cross-references has really been abandoned; they have been reshaped into nine main, self-contained rules.

While much of the old-fashioned verbiage has been swept aside, the dignity of the game has been maintained with such passages as:

"The referee's decision cannot be disputed. A captain is entitled to an explanation of any decision, but no prolonged argument is to be allowed. Disputing the referee's decision or failure to address officials with due respect for the authority they represent may result in penalties varying from a minimum of 10 yards to a maximum of disqualification, depending on the circumstances."

NO TALK FROM BENCH

And that isn't clear: "Commenting by a player, or any occupant of the bench, for the supposed benefit of the officials, shall be penalized under this rule."

The revised rules—"The official playing rules for the Canadian Football League and the Canadian Amateur Football Association"—are the work of three men.

Three members of the CFL rules committee—Harry McBrien of Toronto, Hap Shuldice of Ottawa, and chairman Andy Currie of Winnipeg—each took a third of the old 110-page book and went to work. The new book should run about 64 pages.

It will be published by the sporting-goods firm which produces the official CFL footballs and will be sold through their dealers, probably for 75 cents a copy.

The old book was a great collection of contradictions," says Greg Fulton, the only CFL official left at headquarters.

In some cases, where five-cross-indexed regulations should have been amended, only four were fixed leaving the officials in a quandary.

"We hope now that the obsolescence is gone and that what we have left will encompass any situation that could happen on the field."

'SCRAGGING' DELETED

Now that each rule is self-contained, no official should have to look up a ruling, then note rule 16, sec. 3, art. 3, while a fuming fullback makes strangled noises.

Some quaint expressions have been removed along with the cross-indexing. The word "scragging," defined as tackling "the head or neck above the shoulders," is out. Today, it's covered under the section devoted to "unnecessary roughness."

Nothing has been changed for the sake of change. For instance, the last time Fulton saw a drop-kick attempted was by Don Hiney of Winnipeg Blue Bombers against Calgary Stampeders in Osborne Stadium in 1948.

But there's nothing illegal in trying a field goal that way, so it's still covered in the rules. Hiney scored on the kick, by the way.

The old book illustrated 21 signals; there will be 27 shown in the new one, covering all the old calls plus modern time in-and-out and downs signals.

The new look has extended even to the centre fold—the CFL has finally stripped the official in the illustration of his old-fashioned bow tie and white shirt and furnished him with the striped shirt that has been in vogue for about 20 years.

Mounties Drub Cubs And Move Into First

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Vancouver Mounties took over first place in the Pacific Coast League's Western Division from Tacoma by defeating the Cubs 9-2 in Vancouver Thursday night.

The Mounties scored five runs in the first two innings for most of their win. Four singles brought in two runs in the first frame. The three in the second inning were unearned, two of them the result of Sal Bando's triple.

In other PCL games Thursday night, San Diego beat Indianapolis 7-4 in 13 innings, Oklahoma City defeated Hawaii 2-1 in 14 innings, Portland beat Spokane 5-2, Tulsa trimmed Seattle 6-2 and Denver beat Phoenix 9-7.

The San Diego triumph protected the Padres' 2½-game hold on first place in the Eastern Division.

Bobby Klaus doubled to start San Diego's rally in the 13th. He came home on Roberto Pena's single, and Rich Barry scored Pena from third with a sacrifice fly. Then Bill Sorrell singled in Jim Gentile, who had intentionally walked.

A single by Tommy Murray spelled victory for Oklahoma City in the last of the 14th. It brought home Aaron Pointer after 6½ innings of scoreless play.

Portland pitcher John Fosse won his ball game with a three-run homer in the seventh. Rich Schienblum singled, Lou Piniella doubled, Gus Gil was walked intentionally, and Ray Fosse smacked a sacrifice fly to score Schienblum. Then Fosse batted his homer to bring in the others.

Tulsa's Hal Gilson pitched the distance for his 13th win against nine losses in defeating Seattle. He scattered eight hits while his mates stacked up 11, seven of them in the first three frames: one, a solo homer by George Koryek. Gilson fanned seven and walked two.

There were 31 hits in the Phoenix-Denver contest, with the winners collecting 15. Denver committed three errors in the opening inning, which added up to four runs for the victors. Ozzie Virgil, one-time Denver Bear, hit four times and batted in four runs for Phoenix.

Heavyweight Eliminations Scheduled For Saturday

HOUSTON (AP) — Ernie Terrell and Thad Spencer agreed Thursday that "green power" will be the main thing on their minds Saturday when they meet here in a 12-round heavyweight elimination match.

Jimmy Ellis and Leotis Martin, opponents in another 12-rounder in the tournament designed to select Cassius Clay's successor as World Boxing Association champion, also agreed money will chart the future course of the heavyweight championship.

All four criticized Joe Frazier the No. 2 challenger, for boycotting the eight-man tournament but said he probably will get a chance to meet the new champion.

Frazier recently defeated Toronto's George Chuvalo, who until then was in the running for Clay's title.

"It nauseates me that Frazier is not in the tournament but if he has the record, and the money is there, then I think the winner will have a moral, if not legal, obligation to let him have the first bid for the next fight," Terrell said at a press conference.

"So far his backers have been ambulance chasers. They have wanted to meet guys that are on the way to the cemetery."

Spencer, Martin and Ellis also criticized Frazier for not taking part in the tournament, sanctioned by the U.S.-dominated WBA shortly after Clay was stripped of his title for refusing to be inducted into the U.S. Army. Clay is still recognized as world champion in Europe.

FRAZIER UNAVAILABLE?

"Frazier might not be available once the tournament is over," said Ellis. "It's just possible somebody might hit him on the chin and I don't know that he could take it."

Spencer said Frazier's technical knockout last month over Chuvalo was far from impressive.

"Chuvalo couldn't get out of his way," Spencer said. "I saw him swing with a right and hit himself. Frazier hasn't beaten anybody."

Salmonbellies Defeated 9-5

RICHMOND (CP)—Vancouver Carl's defeated the New Westminster Salmonbellies 9-5 Thursday and a fan got the bum's rush from members of both teams during a game-ending brawl in Inter-City Lacrosse League action.

The win pushed Vancouver two points ahead of second-place Victoria and assured the winners of at least a third-place finish and a spot in the playoffs.

The fan got the heave-ho after he tried to intrude when players from both teams became embroiled in a battle with 41 seconds remaining.

He attempted to grab Gary Stevens of Vancouver during the fight and was whacked with a stick.

After jumping onto the floor to get at Stevens he was picked up and deposited in the stands by players from both teams.

Bill Harber led the winners with three goals and Bill Robinson added two. Sid Warick, Gord Frederickson, Bob Salt and Gord Liebscher scored one each.

Paul Parnell scored three times for New Westminster and Cliff Sepka and Bill Cooksley scored one each. The goal was the 700th of Sepka's career, high in the league.

Rowers Lose First Heat

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's heavyweight crew lost to Harvard by 1½ lengths in a hard-fought duel in rowing preliminaries and other Canadians took to the chin both in and out of competition Thursday at the Pan-American Games.

The University of British Columbia eight, however, will get a second chance to reach the final Saturday when it competes in the repechages.

The heats for losers, to be run off Friday, will have two Canadian crews fighting to reach the finals. In the pairs with cox, Canada placed second to Uruguay. But the Canadian fours with cox easily made the final round, outstriking Cuba to win by about a length.

They Want More Time

CHICAGO (AP) — American League owners voted unanimously Thursday night for eastern and western divisional breakdowns in baseball, but National League owners asked for more time to study the proposal.

Club owners met with baseball commissioner William Eckert for more than two hours in a joint meeting of the two leagues after each league had conducted separate meetings.

The project of two divisions within each league was tabled as the two-day meetings ended.

Joe Chalm, president of the American League, said the plan would call for the winner of each of the five-team divisions to meet in a best-of-five playoff for the title, by a vote of the league in the World Series.

Robert Ford, the National League president, said he would call for a vote to move the plan forward.

Walter G. Allen, president of the National League, said he would call for a vote to move the plan forward.

Allen said he would call for a vote to move the plan forward. "I don't think baseball should be put in a position where it is impossible for a fourth-place team to play a first-place club in the World Series."

NOT THE WAY HE PLANNED IT

Robert Ryan, Californian matador from Inglewood, California, is tossed for a loop by his first bull of day at Tijuana's Plaza Monumental. Ryan, 21, was not seriously hurt and came back to kill the bull. It was his third fight since becoming a full matador in June.

Bizarre, Offbeat Crimes Included Abbe Delorme's

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The bizarre and the offbeat have played their part in the story of Canadian crime during the first century.

A few selections include the murder without a body; the Abbe Delorme, accused of murdering his half-brother; the killing that was called a "hex" murder; and the bumbling investigation into pretty Janet Smith's murder.

THE DELORME CASE

The Abbe Adelaire Delorme celebrated mass of requiem over the body of his half-brother, Raoul, in the Church of St. Jacques at Montreal on Jan. 11, 1922.

The wealthy Raoul's body, with six bullets in it, had been found four days earlier in a shed. In another month, the abbe had been charged with murder.

The case shook the Roman Catholic community of French Canada as it dragged through four trials over 2½ years.

Victim and accused were sons of a contractor who had left most of his considerable estate to Raoul, who was to come into it when he reached 25. He was 24 at the time of his death. Meanwhile, the sole administrator was the abbe, 57, who had been excused from such duties to handle the finances.

The abbe promptly offered a $10,000 reward for Raoul's killer and called for a public execution. However, police quickly found that the half-brother had been shot by a gun found in the priest's car; that the abbe had paid the first premium on a policy on Raoul's life taken out the week before and naming the abbe as beneficiary; and that he also out the bulk of Raoul's estate under a year-old will. Feathers found in the car matched those on clothing found wrapped around the murdered man's head.

At the abbe's first trial, the jury found him insane. He spent a year in an asylum but got a certificate of sanity in time to bar a brother-in-law from getting control of the estate. That made him subject to trial again, and in 1922 and 1923 two juries considered his case but failed to reach a verdict. Finally a fourth jury, this one all French-speaking, returned a verdict of acquittal and Father Delorme retreated from the public eye with the estate until his death from a brain hemorrhage in 1942.

THE BULLET WAS LOST

The 1924 murder of Janet Smith, young and pretty nursemaid for a wealthy Vancouver couple, had elements of a Charles Chan case in reverse.

Wong Foon Sing, a Chinese houseboy, reported finding Scottish-born Janet's body in the basement of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Baker's home. Her skull was fractured, there was a bullet wound in her head, and a spent bullet was lying nearby. The police didn't get around to finding the bullet in time for the next day's inquest, and a verdict of accidental death was returned.

The verdict astonished the Vancouver Scottish Societies, of which Janet was a member, and it pressed for more investigation. The bullet was found. It proved to come from Mr. Baker's gun—member of the Baker's had been at home at the time of the killing. The body was exhumed and a new inquest held. Wong swore, on the "Oath of the Sacred Chicken," that he was innocent. This time the verdict was murder by persons unknown.

Nothing much happened until March 29, 1925, when Wong disappeared. He had been abducted, and on May 1 he was tossed out of a car on a street corner, dazed and blindfolded. Three private detectives employed by the Scottish Societies turned up with a statement signed by the houseboy admitting the killing.

Wong was charged with murder but testified at his trial he signed the "confession" under the third degree. He was acquitted. Later the three detectives were charged with abduction, and one of a ghost person born Janet's murder remained involved.

THE VANISHED BODY
There's a widely-held belief that the body of a murder victim never is produced before the prosecution can make a charge stick. Two Vancouver men have plenty of time to reflect on the error of this.

Frank Willey, 48, was golf pro at an Edmonton club. He disappeared April 19, 1962. Police followed his trail from a house to an abandoned car to a garage to a capital agency to a blood-spattered house under construction and, finally, to fields southeast of Edmonton. But the body was never found.

However, Daniel Workman, 44, and William Huculak, 29, were charged with murder. Workman and Willey had been friends for years but had had a falling-out the previous fall. The prosecution contention was that the two men lured Willey to the party-built house on the pretext of buying a set of golf clubs and killed him there.

They were convicted and sentenced to be hanged but in March, 1963, their sentences were commuted to life.

'SIGN AGAINST HIM'

There was talk of the hex, witchcraft and black magic in the back hills of Nova Scotia's Lunenburg County after Naaman Smith was arrested for the killing of his uncle, Lemuel Smith, in 1931.

Naaman was quoted as saying, cryptically, that he shot Lem because "the sign was checked against him."

"It was special thought and magic power that made me do it," Naaman also said. "I got a special power when I was sick by my body being dissected by the Catholics and Masons when I was a baby."

Newspapers of the time were filled with stories of the "hex murder" of Ninevah, the backwoods community where the Smiths lived; There were tales of Lem, 52, bewitching Naaman, 22, and of people sneering foul-smelling asafetida over their doors and windows to keep out evil spirits.

However, it eventually all boiled down to Naaman being weak in the head. A jury convicted him of murder and he was sentenced to be hanged, but the sentence was commuted and he has been in a mental hospital ever since.

Socreds' Manning Prods Tories Into Renaissance

EDMONTON (CP)—The prophet of Canada's Social Credit movement, Alberta Premier E. C. Manning, has called on the national Progressive Conservative party to lead the country into a political renaissance.

In a book published today, Mr. Manning says Social Credit in the national arena cannot alone effect a political renewal, despite its strong position as the governing party in Alberta and British Columbia. The best alternative is a rebuilt Conservative party.

"In the national field, the Social Credit party can make its maximum contribution to the furthering of its own ideals and principles . . . by doing everything within its power to encourage and assist in bringing about an effective reorganization of the Progressive Conservative party of Canada," Mr. Manning writes.

Robert Thomson, national Social Credit leader from 1961 until he resigned March 17, said in a statement released at the time in his Red Deer constituency that his basic reason for resigning was that "the present political situation in Canada is weak in the national sense."

The party has five of the 265 seats in the House of Commons.

The premier clearly is not endorsing the national Progressive Conservative party in its present form. Rather, he is asking the Conservatives to redefine their principles, policies and structure so that they can take the lead in reorganizing and realigning national politics.

The premier proposes that the Progressive Conservatives adopt as a fundamental new framework, a "social conservative" philosophy that would attract most Social Crediters, a majority of Progressive Conservatives and many Liberals in a realignment of political thought.

Mr. Manning defines "social conservatism" as a synthesis of "the humanitarian concerns of those with awakened social consciences and the economic persuasion of those with a firm conviction in the value of freedom of economic activity and enlightened private enterprise."

Central to Mr. Manning's social conservative synthesis is his conviction that a free enterprise economic system is, in North America, the most efficient way of acquiring the financial and other resources that will support social programs. The social programs, he says, should be directed at creation of a great society but of "a society of great individuals."

SAYS NOT A CANDIDATE

The premier says he himself has no desire ever to be a candidate for federal political leadership.

The premier says that if the Progressive Conservative party does not take up the challenge of political renewal, many Canadians will begin to give serious consideration to formation of an altogether new national party with a social conservative philosophy.

However, at this time, Mr. Manning says, he does not believe "that the formation of an entirely new political party is the best way to meet the serious national political needs."

Mr. Manning's 94-page volume, Political Realignment: A Challenge to Thoughtful Canadians, is essentially a detailed re-statement of thoughts he has voiced on a variety of occasions over the last few years.

IS AT SIGNIFICANT TIME

It is published at a significant time, both for the Progressive Conservatives and for Premier Manning.

The Progressive Conservative party's central preoccupation now is the race for the national party leadership, to be decided at a convention in Toronto Sept. 6 to 9.

Wilson Names New Life Peers To Replace Those Who Died

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Wilson today named 14 new life peers to the House of Lords.

The list of life peers, which replaces Labor supporters in the upper house who have died or become sick or elderly, included two women, several labor union leaders, industrialists and academics.

The union leaders include Sir Harry Douglass, 65, a former chairman of the 8,500,000-man Trade Union Congress; Ted Hill, 67, former president of the Boilermakers Union; and Charles Smith, 50-year-old general secretary of the Post Office Engineering Union.

Others named included Sir Benjamin Hor Evans, 67, a former provost of University College, London; and Sir William Fiske, 62, who led the Labor group in the London municipal council before a Conservative opposition party victory this spring.

The two women were Alma Birk, 46, an associate magazine editor and the wife of a director of the company that owns the mass-circulation newspaper, The Daily Mirror; and Lady Patricia Llewellyn-Davies, a director of the African Educational Trust.

The new life peerages are intended to make good some of the loss the Labor party has suffered in the upper house since coming to power. Fifteen of its supporters there have become ineffective through retirement or sickness and 19 have died since May, 1965.

Labor peers now number 112 against 350 Conservatives, 42 Liberals, 98 not aligned with any party, 17 law lords, 26 bishops of the Church of England, and 113 others, some of whom seldom attend.

Report On 'Black Morning' Expected To Be A Best Seller

LONDON (CP) — Her Majesty's stationery office expects House of Commons Paper 553 will be a best-seller as government publications go—especially in the mining valleys of Wales.

Paper 553, a 151-page report of the tribunal appointed to inquire into the Disaster at Aberfan on October 21st, 1966, was issued today in an unusually large edition of about 10,000 copies.

The stationery office made special arrangements to put the 15-shilling report on sale in the Wales gas board's Aberfan showroom—just 500 yards from the wrecked homes and school-house where 116 children and 28 adults died in the slip-slide—and in a non-government shop in nearby Merthyr Tydfil.

The tribunal, led by Wales-born justice Sir Edmund Davies, traces the tragedy's story and apportion blame and praise in a vigorous style that is rare in its refusal to mince language.

Newspapers of the time were filled with stories of the "hex murder" of Ninevah, the backwoods community where the Smiths lived; There were tales of Lem, 52, bewitching Naaman, 22, and of people sneering foul-smelling asafetida over their doors and windows to keep out evil spirits.

However, it eventually all boiled down to Naaman being weak in the head. A jury convicted him of murder and he was sentenced to be hanged, but the sentence was commuted and he has been in a mental hospital ever since.

Grassland Day Coming Soon

VERNON — The 14th annual Grassland competition, sponsored by NOCA and the Vernon branch, Royal Bank of Canada, will take place on August 24 and 25, with nature judge Douglas Taylor, forage specialist, of Agassiz. There will be awards for the "grass man of the year," as in the past; the runner-up; the best new seedling, with Buckenfields Ltd. offering a prize for the best stand of corn.

At times, the prose takes on an appropriate lilt of Welsh lyricism when the report expresses anger at examples of bureaucratic ineptitude, dismay at official ignorance or sorrow for the suffering villagers.

A chapter about the discomfort and apprehension experienced by some villagers as a result of slime-floods caused by the slag-heaps before the disaster is poignant testimony to the dreariness of life in a coal-mine community.

"I have been living here 12 years and four times I have had my rooms flooded," says a letter of complaint to the coal authority written in 1960, one of several warning letters quoted in the report.

"It is not just the furniture, carpets, etc. which we have to worry about but the permanent damage being done to the foundations of our homes," the letter concludes.

PREFACE TO TRAGEDY

The report's "bureaucratic" of what happened on the black Friday morning of the disaster is a succinct, four-page essay that tells the story mainly in the moving words of ordinary villagers who were involved or watched.

George Williams told how he heard a noise like a jet plane and "through the morning mist" saw the windows and doors of the Moy Road houses crashing in like a pile of dominoes coming down. He escaped the surge of wet slurry by hiding behind a sheet of corrugated iron. While he was waiting for rescue, he said:

"In that silence you couldn't hear a bird or a child."

In Alberta, Mr. Manning's Social Credit administration faces a revitalized opposition in the legislature led by the provincial Progressive Conservative leader Peter Lougheed. Social Credit holds 55 seats in the legislature and the 10-man opposition includes six Conservatives, mostly from Edmonton and Calgary constituencies.

More than half Mr. Manning's book is devoted to a study of what he identifies as weaknesses in the present Canadian political system.

French Stage Faults Rocket

ADELAIDE (Reuters) — The Edo Europe 1 rocket launched from Woomera today crashed in the central Australian desert after the French second stage did not ignite, it was announced today.

News of the disaster came hours after Britain's French and West German clients at Woomera had jubilantly congratulated each other on what was believed to be a successful test flight, achieved after 10 postponements, caused by technical faults and high winds.

Today's flight was designed to test the rocket's French Coralie second stage.

One of the problems, said a British official, was caused by trouble with the Coralie.

The fault was traced to equipment associated with the release system designed to separate the Coralie from the Blue Streak first stage.

This documentary was made by CBMT producer Brian O'Leary of the Centennial programming of CBMT Montreal. It shows the actors at work and the extensive set preparations. The TV series, entitled 'D'Iverville', is based on the life of Pierre Lemoyne, sieur d'Iberville, who was born in Montreal in the 17th century, led many battles in eastern Canada and later was a principal colonizer in Louisiana. The series covers the years 1682 to 1704. Much of the filming was done on the Ile d'Orleans, near Quebec City where several buildings and streets were reconstructed to resemble 17th century Quebec. A full-scale replica of Lemoyne's ship, The Pelican, and detailed miniatures of Quebec City and Montreal districts were also created for the series.

Teresa Stratas
A Heat Victim

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — Metropolitan Opera soprano, Teresa Stratas collapsed on stage at the Bavarian State Opera Tuesday night while singing the title role in La Traviata.

The Toronto-born singer was rushed to a hospital and was reported improved today.

The reason for her collapse was not announced, but other singers suggested it was probably due to Munich's summer heat.

It's A Question Of Editing To Bring Togetherness

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — George Hamilton and Suzanne Pleshette lie on the floor in torrid embrace. George reaches for a bottle, pours drinks. The phone rings. He rises and answers it. Each action is filmed separately, but now through the editor's viewing machine they flow smoothly as if photographed in one continuous action.

"If a cut goes by that way, it's a good cut," says Tom McCarthy, looking up from this scene of producer George Pal's latest science-fiction film, The Power.

McCarthy is one of nearly 500 film editors, warmly appreciated in the industry but little understood by movie-goers.

"Most of them think that's the way the picture was photographed, and maybe that's the way it should be," says Ralph Winters. "No one should be conscious of a cut."

Winters, 58, has worked in Hollywood cutting rooms for 40 years. He edited more than 100 hours of film down into 3 1/2 hours for Ben-Hur and won an Academy Award.

Previously he got an Oscar for King Solomon's Mines, his toughest job because "the company was in Africa and we were here, getting loads of five or six weeks' shooting at a time."

Editors select long shots, close-ups, over-the-shoulder shots, fade-ins, fade-outs and dissolves — the overlapping of one scene into another — to emphasize, de-emphasize or change the picture's feeling.

"It's like writing with scissors," one says. In McCarthy's viewing machine, Yvonne DeCarlo's close-up scream dissolved into the shrieking siren of a police car.

"We blend them together for shock effect," said McCarthy. SAVE FILM

Preview-panned pictures have been saved for re-editing although this year's Oscar winner, Fritz Steinkamp—Grand Prix—says, "It takes a lot of heads."

An industry veteran says High Noon, in which Gary Cooper won an Oscar, was "a disaster at the sneak preview."

"Then they added the device of the town clock and re-cut it to give it all its pace."

Some cutters, as they used to be called, go on to become directors and producers—George Stevens, Frank Capra, Robert Wise and others. Stevens spent more than a year editing The Diary of Ann Frank.

She Possesses All Attributes To Be Season's Sex Symbol

LONDON (AP) — The cheekbones are high, the hair blonde and unruly, the shoulders wide, and the bust ample—37 inches by the studio's claim, 36 by her own account.

She has all the attributes for being the season's sex symbol, and the European picture magazines are reacting accordingly. They have been featuring photographs of the erstwhile successor to Ursula Andress and Raquel Welch.

The unusual aspect about the new contender is that she is a Czech.

Olinka Berova is her name, and her official biography points out that Olinka means "Little Baby." The document says:

"The true test of a 'stunner' is the looks she gets in the street. Olinka stops the whole traffic."

BORED WITH BUILDUP

Well, it's conceivable. But the real Olinka Berova is rather bored with the sex buildup and would like to skip it. That's not likely—not when she is starring as She in The Vengeance of She.

Miss Berova is further evidence of the amazing vigor of the tiny film industry of Czechoslovakia. Czech films have been applauded by critics and film festival judges in various parts of the world. This outburst of talent caught the attention of one of America's big agencies, G.A.C., which arranged to represent the Czechs in dealings with producers of the West.

A new star was sought for a sequel to She—Miss Andress, who had played the title role was by now too expensive; G.A.C. suggested Miss Berova because of her resemblance to Miss Andress. The producers, Hammer-Seven Arts, were in hearty agreement.

Olinka Berova is 21, mini-skirted — "We wear them in Prague, too"—and speaks English with an engaging accent.

"After I finish school, I was 18 and I do not know what to do," she says. "There was this director who saw me and wanted me to appear in his film."

"I did not want to. But he keeps after me for six months and finally he says, 'Now you must say yes or no.' I say yes."

The first film was called We Were Ten. It was followed by Lemonade Joe, which won second prize at the San Sebastian Film Festival and brought Miss Berova international attention.

She has appeared in 10 films, including the German-made Gold Miners of Arkansas and Austrian Count Bobby from the Wild West.

MOVIE
highlights

Some good movies have been lined up for Kelowna audiences during Regatta Week, including The Agony and the Ecstasy and Arrivederci Baby.

At the Paramount Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 7, 8 and 9, Walt Disney's Bullwhip Griffin will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m. A 2 p.m. matinee may be held Wednesday if the response is sufficient.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 10, 11 and 12, The Agony and the Ecstasy is scheduled nightly at 8.

Saturday, Aug. 12, there will be a special matinee at 2 p.m. showing Snow White and the Three Stooges plus cartoons.

The theatre lobby will have displays of paintings by local artists and also a book display from the Okanagan Regional Library.

At the Kelowna Drive-In Theatre, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 5, 7 and 8, Arrivederci Baby will be seen at dusk.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Spy in Your Eye will be shown.

The Adventures of Bullwhip Griffin is a Walt Disney comedy, an uproarious spoof of the gold rush era. Starred are Roddy McDowall, Karl Malden and Suzanne Pleshette. In the story, a proper Boston butler and his young ward are shanghaied aboard a steam sailer bound for California, strike it rich in the gold fields, are bilked out of their fortune by a con artist, and return to San Francisco without a nugget in their pokes. Butler Griffin, played strictly for laughs by Roddy McDowall, signs up to fight a mammoth barroom bouncer named the Mountain Ox and, with the help of Disney's bag of cinematic tricks, plus the inspiration of a beauty called the Boston Belle, played by Suzanne Pleshette, wins the day.

The Agony and the Ecstasy has Charlton Heston as Michelangelo and Rex Harrison co-starring as Julius II, the warrior pope who commissioned the sculptor to paint the frescoes on the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel.

The film brings to the screen the epic conflict between two of the greatest personalities of the Renaissance, based on a novel by Irving Stone. The novel dealt with the full life of Michelangelo, but the film focuses on the four-year period in which he painted the chapel ceiling.

The entire picture was shot in Italy, utilizing some of the most historic and picturesque locations in that country. Director Reed filmed scenes in an actual marble quarry near Carrara where Michelangelo himself supervised the work of getting blocks of marble for his great masterpieces.

The main setting, which occupied a full third of the entire shooting period of nearly four months, was a full-scale reproduction of the Sistine Chapel. Permission to use the real chapel was not forthcoming because of the enormous illumination required, which would dry out and crumble the centuries-old frescoes.

As the Medici countess whose life is entangled with the great Michelangelo, Diane Cilento shows her versatility by playing a role in strong contrast with the one which won her an Academy Award nomination in "Tom Jones".

Arrivederci, Baby is a wild comedy and stars Tony Curtis, Rosanna Schiaffino and co-stars Zsa Zsa Gabor, Lionel Jeffries, Anna Quayle and Nancy Kwan. There's a zany sequence set in a Riviera discotheque. Audiences will also visit a casino in Nice, the waterfront at Villefranche, the hillside village of La Tourette su Loup, the luxurious Eden Roc Hotel and a gypsy encampment between Cannes and Nice.

But, not everything takes place on the Cote d'azur.

There are scenes in a stately manor house in Surrey, in a typical English pub and on a grouse moor in the north of England. There's even a fox hunt across the Sussex Downs, complete with the traditional red coats and culminating in a rare Curtis success—he catches the fox, by the tail!

There are scenes of an Hungarian wedding, featuring Zsa Zsa Gabor, Tony Curtis, and a band of authentic gypsies all having a merry good time. The wedding was filmed in a charming English glade, that is a perfect setting for any kind of wedding.

An RAF base just outside of London served as the rocket launching site from which Curtis sends wife (Zsa Zsa Gabor) into orbit.

Other "for real" locations include an orphanage, a 70-foot yacht and a mud-dredging scow.

Spy in Your Eye stars Brett Halsey, Pier Angeli and Dana Andrews in a story about secret agents and pretty girls.

Violin Maker Has A Soul

VICTORIA (CP)—Inspiration for creating a delicate instrument like the violin usually comes from the maker's soul.

But Clarence Cooper, 58, used slide-rule precision and cold mathematics when he chiselled his award-winning violin from native woods in 400 hours this year.

The instrument he calls his "mathematical wonder" recently scored a clean sweep of all violin trophies at the British Columbia Violin Makers' annual show.

"Most violin makers use rules of thumb," he said. "I sat down and figured out my own design based on musical intervals."

And judge Horace Plimley said the violin sounded better than a Stradivarius.

He should know. Mr. Plimley has owned several of the violins made by the Italian craftsman that now sell for between $40,000 and $100,000.

Mr. Cooper carefully measured all the parts of his instrument to ensure the violin would "fit" its music.

"If it doesn't fit, the notes jam up and interfere with each other," he said. "The violin sounds like a factory instrument."

Straight-grained Sitka spruce was used to form the neck of the prize-winning instrument and B.C. maple was used on the back, sides and top of its body.

Mr. Cooper, a native of Stratford, Ont., plans to enter the violin in an international competition in Arizona this fall.

Vigor Of English Film Results In 'Little Picture' Development

LONDON (AP)—The vigor of the English film has resulted from development of what has been called—for lack of a better term—the "little picture."

The "little picture" is made for little money — usually less than $1,000,000, sometimes half that amount. The leading players are often little known.

The subject matter is often daring or far-out, and the direction and performances display imagination and an adherence to reality. The increasingly sophisticated film audiences of Britain and America have provided big profits for the little pictures that succeed. Having been stung by foreign-made epics that scarcely broke even, American film companies are investing in more and more little pictures.

Universal believes that Michael Winner is just what his name implies. The company backed the young producer-director in The Jokers, about two brothers who try to steal the crown jewels from the Tower of London.

Winner has strong views about studios.

"They're a thing of the past — absolutely worthless," says a he.

"Oh, perhaps you might build sets for historical interiors that you couldn't find elsewhere. Otherwise it is pointless to shoot scenes against cardboard backgrounds. Such rubbish!"

His argument goes counter to traditional Hollywood thinking, which argues that greater quality can be achieved under the controlled conditions inside a studio.

Bryan Forbes is a veteran of the little picture—The L-Shaped Room, Seance on a Wet Afternoon—but has also gone the route of the big Hollywood production—King Rat. He prefers to think little.

"The trouble with King Rat was that the picture had to assume the studio overhead charges, which came to $800,000," says Forbes. "If it hasn't been for the overhead, the film might have turned a profit."

Last year the director returned to the little picture, turning out The Whisperers with Dame Edith Evans for $400,000.

Jayne Mansfield Favored In Will

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A will of lawyer Samuel S. Brody, killed June 29 with actress Jayne Mansfield in an automobile accident, disinherits his wife and their two children and leaves the entire estate to the late blonde performer.

The will, handwritten and dated 18 days before Brody and Miss Mansfield died on a New Orleans highway, was filed Monday by Matt Cimber, third husband of the actress.

"I hereby bequeath and give all my estate, whether personal or otherwise, to the only person in the world I love, Jayne Mansfield," the will states. It was found in Miss Mansfield's safety deposit box.

via the vine that the Mission carver artist had received a commission from the city of Trail, B.C., to execute his craft, the end result to become the centrepiece theme for a park project.

Anticipating the apparent lull I would find this week in lively the lack of immediate lively arts activities, I recalled Jack Hambleton's enthusiasm for Bob Reid's latest project. No mean artist himself, Jack's endorsement of his fellow artist's work gave me food for thoughtful consideration toward making it to the Mission sculptor's studio site to see what I could see. I made the destination, but, before getting there, you've got to believe it, the scene after glorious scene of lakeshore, meadows, and the happy summer visitors enjoying our summer salad days gave me an exhilarating lift. What used to be wilting little willows drooping in former suns at the tent grounds have become lofty arboreal members of that convenient campers community. Lush now with greenery, the scene that was once bare if not grim ground, is now an everglade of happy tenters. Just beyond Gyro Park and Beach, another joy to behold was the developing and already well peopled beach extension. White gleaming broad expanses of friendly clean sand made me proud and happy at the artistic and practical ability of our community developers.

Pulling into the site of the sculpture I went out to see, within a moment Bob Reid was showing me his project. Immediately it was provocative and led to a brief quiz as to its inspiration. He calls it "Hand Of Work." Looking searchingly for a moment, I could perceive the strength contained in its abstract form which indeed had been born out of the most important tool used by man . . . his hands. The artist sees the smelter city as being generated by working hands. The form he has sculpted transcends being a hand, and has become a symbol conveying its strength. Weighing two tons, rising to a height of ten feet, it is a majestic mold, crafted and carved on a superstructure as an aircraft in fact is done. Cement (and that's not cement) based, with red marble chips inlaid, it has been lovingly smoothed to a graceful contour. Bob's whaling background I feel has crept into it as its dolphin-like beauty rises to a pinnacle peak. It will become centre-point for the balance of the work which will be its symetric slab concrete forms base. This latter work will be achieved on the actual site in the Trail Park.

Recalling the too often justified quote: "A prophet with out honor in his own land," I decided to share my discovery with my readers. Reid is a practical man. He'll be trucking the work himself to Trail City. At the end of that trail, I feel he will be on the beginning of a promising new path of artistic achievement once his work provokes attention . . . and it's bound to, good, bad, and indifferent. But then, to quote the artist sculptor himself: "Isn't this kind of recreation the generating force in art?" Touche, Bob Reid, and good luck when you head for Trail about two weeks from now.

FM TOO

The fifty-six separate hours of CJOV-FM programs this ensuing week will provide highlights to follow: A re-pressing of an original concert by Arturo Toscanini and his NBC Orchestra from a concert performed in 1947 makes for a glorious listening experience Sunday evening from 8 to 10 p.m. What you'll hear will be the Berlioz dramatic symphony composed for orchestra and voices. Featuring Gladys Swarthout, John Carris, Nicola Moscona and a chorus with the NBC Orchestra, this program is worth tuning in to. . . Sunday afternoon Gloria will recall the golden days of Nelson Eddie and Jeanette MacDonald in a special collection of their original works on FM Concert Hall at 2 p.m. . . Monday at 8:10 p.m. she will offer The Chocolate Soldier for regular listeners to Monday's Classics show. . . Tuesday evening at 10:15 comedy reigns with Don Adams. FM Theatre at the same time of 10:15 Thursday spotlights the original Oklahoma. Symphony Hall offers a rich cross section at 9 p.m. Monday to Friday and 7-8 p.m. Saturday. Stravinsky's Fire Bird and Korsakoff's Le Coeur d'Or suites will be heard at 9 p.m. performed by the Boston Symphony tonight on CJOV-FM. Check the basic schedule below for other FM Quality Programs.
